Bob Wolfe Wins by Landslide

VICTOR THANKS WELL-WISHERS

Robert L. Wolfe victorious in his quest for the 37th Judicial District seat, smiles as well-wishers crowd around to offer their congratulations. Wolfe's win was a landslide. The votes ran nearly three to one in Wolfe's favor over his nearest rival for the office, Judge Samuel

Nixon and Thieu to Meet June 8 on Midway Island

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and his Vietnamese counterpart, Nguyen Van Thieu, will fly to Midway Island June 8 to appraise the Vietnamese war and the possibilities of peace, it was announced Tuesday.

In a matter of a mere few hours, the two chief executives will try to clarify any misunderstandings on policy and seek agreement on a course for the future.

Thieu spoke up Saturday for a summit session with Nixon, saying "I feel it is necessary to set up a common policy at this juncture in the situation."

This followed by only three days Nixon's Radio-television talk to the nation proposing mutual withdrawal of the contending forces in Vietnam as part of an administration program for opening the way to peace.

Administration officials have said, too, that the United States is willing to discuss the Viet Cong's proposal at the Paris peace talks for creation of a coalition government to supervise national elections in Vietnam.

Rogers Tells SEATO U.S. Open-Minded About Viet

BANGKOK Thailand (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers told members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization Tuesday that the United States is keeping an open mind about negotiating a settlement in Vietnam.

Rogers told a private session of the SEATO Council, however, that the Nixon administration will not compromise the principle of free choice for the South Vietnamese.

Rogers echoed the spirit of President Nixon's speech last Wednesday in which he said the United States was prepared to negotiate on all issues including those raised by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

Earlier, at a public session of the council, Rogers assured SEATO members that his government would "not abandon" its obligations to the security of this part of the world.

Rogers sought to assure allied foreign ministers, apprehensive that the United States might lose interest militarily in Southeast Asia when it starts pulling out of South Vietnam.

The secretary of state reaffirmed the 1962 interpretation of the SEATO treaty which has been considered integral to the presence of American forces in Thailand. But he did not spell out how long the American forces might remain there.

Astronauts Get Checkup Across 200,000 Miles of Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 10 astronauts got a physical checkup across 200,000 miles of space Tuesday with only hours separating them from their hazardous inspection of the moon—tugging ever harder at their tiny craft.

"Right now the moon looks as big as earth," said Navy Cmdr. John Young as the astronauts got their first view of both heavenly bodies at the same time.

They were less than 50,000 miles from their destination. Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford, Navy Cmdr. Eugene Cernan and Young were scheduled to be asleep as the spacecraft entered the mysterious and unfelt twilight zone where the pull of earth gravity wanes and the moon's begins.

At 4:45 p.m., EDT, Wednesday, they arrive at the point where they fire their engine—out of sight and hearing of earth—and go into moon orbit leading to Thursday's separation of the bug-like lunar lander and its climactic dip to within 9.3 miles of the lunar surface.

Stafford and Cernan will be aboard the LEM, Young, alone in the command module and maintaining the 70-mile high lunar orbit, will be available to come to their rescue.

Dr. Charles Berry, the astronauts' chief physician, held a conversation — not carried to news media — with the spacemen for reassurance that they were physically up to the 2½ day trial ahead.

Space center spokesmen said they had no indication the astronauts' health was anything but perfect.

Flight Director Jerry Griffin reported that "all spacecraft systems are working beautifully."

Though they have trained for this day for two years, the astronauts told the space center they wanted to spend two or three hours quietly going over the intricate maneuvers that lie ahead.

Any misstep, such as a firing of the lunar lander's engine for an extra three seconds — could mean death on the barren lunar surface.

If they were apprehensive, they didn't show it in their conversations with the ground and in conducting another televised travelogue of the now small earth.

Apollo's Key Goal: Find Target for Landing

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 10's around-the-moon trip has one key goal: finding the target area for the moon landing in July.

"The most important thing they can do is actually recognize the landing site area," so planners can be confident Apollo 11 will not miss its touchdown target, said astronaut-scientist Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, a geologist who helped the Apollo 10 trio learn about lunar features before their take-off Sunday.

There are, however, other goals, too.

Many closeup pictures of the surface scheduled during the 2½ days Apollo 10 astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan circle the moon were planned to help scientists try to figure out how the moon formed and how it changes.

The astronauts hoped to photograph areas where volcanic activity is suspected, and get detailed pictures of craters of different ages so researchers can better understand the rate at which the lunar surface is smoothed or roughened.

Bonavita Concedes at 9:30; Winner Tops Incumbent, 3-1

Warren attorney Robert L. Wolfe ran away with the Republican and Democratic nominations for judge of the 37th Judicial District Tuesday with a near 3 to 1 (three to one margin) over his closest competitor Judge Samuel F. Bonavita.

Wolfe's primary victory assured him of a ten year term on the bench of Warren and Forest County. His will be the only name to appear on the ballot in November.

In Warren County, all precincts reporting, on the Republican ballot, Wolfe had 5,391 votes to 2,022 for Bonavita. Attorney Richard A. Leuthold, the third man seeking the post received 613 votes. On the Democratic slate Wolfe received 2,094 votes, Bonavita 868 and Leuthold 329. In Forest County where ballot counting was hindered by a number of write-ins, with 30 per cent of the county's eight precincts reporting, Wolfe had 137 votes on the Republican ballot, Bonavita garnered 75 GOP votes.

Democratic votes in Forest County went 89 for Wolfe and 26 for Bonavita. There was no tally available on Leuthold.

The two county totals were: GOP, 5,528 for Wolfe, 2,097 for Bonavita and 613 for Leuthold; Democrat, 2,138 for Wolfe, 884 for Bonavita and 329 for Leuthold.

Bonavita conceded the race just before 9:30 p.m. with most of the precincts yet to report. A short time later, Wolfe entered the court house receiving the cheers of his jubilant

No Apathy in County; Over 50% Cast Ballots

Warren County residents Tuesday went to polls in such numbers that many political observers said the election appeared more like a full-blown Presidential race than a usually dull off-year Primary Election.

While most of the state was bogged down in political apathy, here in Warren County more than 50 per cent of the 19,392 eligible voters went to the polls.

Most readily conceded that it was the three-way race for judge from the 37th Judicial District—Warren and Forest counties—that brought out the record vote for the off-year Primary Election.

What had been termed a close race between Judge Samuel F. Bonavita and Attorney Robert L. Wolfe turned into an easy victory when early in the unofficial vote tally it became apparent that Wolfe was pulling ahead of his rival by a substantial margin. When the final vote was counted, Wolfe had handed Judge Bonavita a defeat by nearly a three to one margin. The third judge candidate, Attorney Richard E. Leuthold received only a handful of votes.

Forest County results were incomplete at press time, but the unofficial count had Wolfe

Incumbent Supervisors Win in Most Races

Incumbent supervisor candidates from the county's townships where contests existed appeared to do fairly well.

In Brokenstraw Township, Republican incumbent supervisor George A. Probst easily defeated fellow Republican, Richard E. Pollow, 84 to 34.

Republicans in Conewango Township nominated their incumbent supervisor, James N. Stockdill, but by a narrow margin. The totals from the township's two districts were Stockdill, 381, to Robert J. Kucher's 312.

The vote breakdown by district was: Stockdill, 237, first district, and 144, second district, to Kucher's 267, first district, to 45 for Kucher in second district.

Democrat George T. Moldovan defeated his party rival, Martin Kasaback, for the Democratic nomination for supervisor from Sheffield Township, 140 to 73. The unopposed Republican candidate, however, Gerald C. Newburg, tallied 346 votes. Democrat Phillip Anundson, unopposed in his bid for re-election to the County School board, received 154 votes.

Borough Council Races Produce Two Upsets

Warren Borough's council races produced two upsets, one in each party, in Tuesday's Primary Election.

Republican incumbent councilman, Karl G. Timm, from the Fifth Ward went down to defeat at the hands of Republican George W. Spangler. Timm tallied 206 votes while his opponent received 333. Republicans eligible to cast ballots in the primary tallied 801.

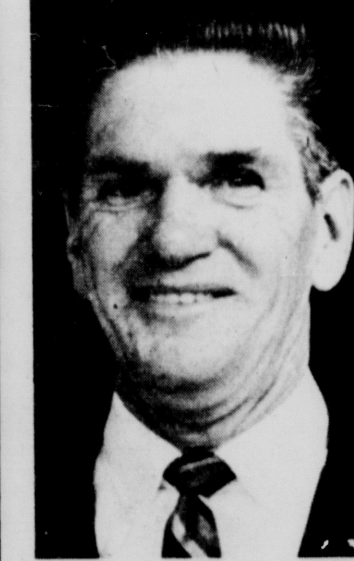

In the traditionally Democratic Fourth Ward, incumbent, Edwin E. Sullivan was defeated by fellow Democrat Victor E. Graziano, 74 to 39. Total Democratic registration in the ward is 215. In the three-way Republican contest in the Seventh Ward, Alan H. Buerkle narrowly defeated Elbert H. Miller, 99 to 73, but sent Richard F. Marchione down to defeat, 99 to 27. Approximately two thirds of the Republicans eligible to cast votes went to the polls.

Republican Councilman H. Kent Peterson withstood the challenge of D. Hugh Siggins, defeating him 137 to 89 in the borough's Eighth Ward. The voter turnout in this ward was less than the others where contests existed with about 50 per cent of the registered Republicans going to the polls.

Judicial Amendment Defeated In Dullest Election in Years

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Republican and Democratic county and city organizations won victories all across Pennsylvania in Tuesday's quiet primary, nominating endorsed candidates with ease practically everywhere they were opposed.

Only in Pittsburgh did an independent — in the Democratic contest for mayor — crack the power of the party bosses. City Councilman Peter F. Flaherty beat organization-backed Harry A. Kramer and two other rivals.

Mostly, it was the dullest election in years — and also one in which a minority of voters made most of the ballot decisions. Best estimates, after the polls closed, were that less than 45 per cent of the 5.4 million registered bothered to go to the polls.

Those who did, on the basis of early returns, appeared to be handily rejecting — by nearly 3 to 2 — an amendment to the state constitution that was designed to take the selection of judges out of politics. Party leaders generally had given it lukewarm support, and some openly urged its defeat.

The voter apathy, plus scattered rainstorms in some sections, plus extra citizen sensitivity to taxes and increased government spending, combined to defeat a $90 million Philadelphia school bond proposal.

The fight for the State Supreme Court seat will be settled in November after skirmishes on the Republican and Democratic tickets, through cross-filing, ended in a stalemate.

Republican Thomas W. Pomeroi, the incumbent now by appointment of Gov. Shafer, easily won the GOP nomination, and Democrat Louis J. Manderino had no trouble grabbing his party's favor.

The Pittsburgh mayoralty took on added significance after Mayor Joseph Barr declined to seek a fourth term — and the Republicans smelled opportunity to end 25 years of Democratic control.

The GOP easily nominated John K. Tabor, former state secretary of labor and industry, while the splintered Democrats, squabbling to be Barr's heir, engaged in a dogfight.

Flaherty broke with Barr last year, over the budget and taxes — money issues the people seem to follow more than ever now. He has long been associated with the Democratic Party's liberal wing. Kramer quit as an

State

Allegheny County Orphans Court judge, at Barr's behest, to make the race.

Across the state, in Philadelphia, organization Democrats crushed opposition from independents and blacks to nominate David Berger for district attorney and A. Charles Peruto for city controller. Republican candidates were unopposed—Incumbent D.A. Arlen Specter and Thomas Gola, for controller.

Voters in 24 other cities also nominated candidates for mayors—and the states appeared to be rolling to easy victories.

In Erie, Democrats renominated Louis J. Tullio for a second term. He'll be opposed by Republican City Councilman Robert Brabender.

Mayorality candidates in Chester were unopposed.

In Meadville, Republican Francis T. Rice won his party's nomination for another term. Democrats, without a candidate on the ballot, gave more votes to Dr. Herbert S. Rhine-smith.

On the judicial amendment, substantial opposition was running in Philadelphia, Luzerne and Lackawanna counties to put it in serious trouble.

Not since 1963 have voters in Pennsylvania rejected a statewide referendum. That year a proposed constitutional convention failed but it won voter support four years later. Voters last rejected a constitutional amendment in 1961.

Judge

backers. "I am grateful for all the support that I received from people in all walks and stations of life and for the trust they have placed in me in this position," Wolfe said. Wolfe's supporters pressed around offering congratulations happy with victory and the margin of victory.

The general cheerfulness, however, was not without nuance. An attorney remarked that he would have to be very careful in the handling of his civil cases for the next six months.

The post was hotly contested with all three candidates cross filing and appearing on both Republican and Democratic slates. However, before the outcome, there were few prognosticators willing to make predictions.

Wolfe, 43, has practiced law for many years, the last ten in Warren. He holds a degree from St. Bonaventure University and a doctor of law degree from the State University of New York at Buffalo. Wolfe, his wife Margaret and their six children reside at 307 Hazel st.

Supervisors

Republican candidate for supervisor from Glade Township received his party's nomination when he defeated James H. Schumann, 199 votes to 167. In Elk Township Republican Paul L. Cage defeated Harry L. Haskins 25 to 34 in their contest for the party's nomination for supervisor. And in Farmington Township, Lynn Burgett easily out voted his GOP rival, Walter Yeskey, 112 to 41.

Mead Township Republican gave Gerald F. Dorrien 175 votes to 69 for Arthur E. Atwell in that supervisor race.

James G. Akeley, Republican candidate for supervisor from Pine Grove Township, received 262 votes to Paul H. Lucas' 61 tallies. In a close supervisor contest in Pittsfield Township, Democrat Edwin Osborne defeated fellow Democrat Carl Durlin 12 to 11.

In Triumph Township, Ernest W. Perkins received 24 votes to Russell K. Hunter's 37 in the Republican supervisor contest; and in Columbus Township, Democrat Frank Sayko received 74 votes to 80 for his rival, Howard L. Goodwill.

Republican supervisor candidate Don O. Swart, however, received 148 votes.

Nixon

"It had the full endorsement, and the enthusiastic endorsement of President Thieu and the Saigon government."

Barth said "Both presidents had in mind the desirability of such a meeting" and he added: "There is no substitute for face to face meeting."

Ziegler said there was a mutual desire to get together and that Sunday, June 8, is the only date for which both chief executives are in the clear.

Nixon's commencement address at Ohio State University on June 7 was canceled and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was billed to deliver the speech instead. It will be Agnew's speech, not Nixon's, Ziegler said.

In announcing the Midway meeting, Ziegler read a statement saying the two presidents had wanted such a session as soon as feasible "in order to establish personal contact and discuss together the conduct of the war in Vietnam and the search for a peaceful solution."

"The two presidents," the statement concluded, "look forward to the forthcoming meeting at Midway Island as an occasion to discuss the current situation and future plans and to reaffirm their unity of purpose."

feat at 9:30 p.m. The unofficial vote count in the judge race was Wolfe, 5,391; Bonavita, 2,022, and Leuthold, 613 on the Republican ticket. On the Democratic ticket, Leuthold polled 329 votes, Wolfe, 2,049 and Bonavita, 868.

Vote results were slow in coming into the Court House. One delaying factor, officials said, was the counting of absentee ballots at the precincts before bringing or calling results into the Court House. Prior to this election, absentee ballots had been counted by the Board of Elections within a certain number of days following the election.

On the question of whether to alter the present method of selecting judges for courts of statewide jurisdiction, county residents said "yes" by an almost two to one margin. The unofficial vote count was 4,185 yes and 2,219 no.

Under the present law, judges on the state bench run for office as nominees for their respective political parties and vacancies are filled by gubernatorial appointment with Senate confirmation.

The new system would provide gubernatorial appointment from a list of 10 to 20 names submitted by a Judicial Qualifications Commission with no senatorial confirmation required.

In the contest for Judge of the Supreme Court between Republican Thomas W. Pomeroy Jr., and Democrat Louis L. Manderino, Warren and Forest county voters overwhelmingly endorsed Pomeroy. The position was held formerly by the late Justice Michael A. Musmanno. Both candidates cross filed on the Republican and Democratic tickets. The vote count at press time combined and by party, was Pomeroy 5,068 to Manderino's 1,105 on the Republican ticket; and Pomeroy, 1,371 to 906 for Manderino on the Democratic ticket.

The mayorality candidates from the county's six boroughs produced little excitement with only one contest being recorded.

In Clarendon Borough, Democrats Samuel R. Notaro and Chester R. Walker hooked up in the contest for their party's nomination, with Walker the winner tallying 47 votes to the loser's 46. Incumbent Mayor Republican Myron O. Bullock tallied 71 votes.

Elsewhere in the county the candidates for mayor were either incumbents or unopposed for their party's nod.

Walter H. Austin, for example, ran unopposed for the Warren Borough Republican nomination. Austin is presently borough councilman from the Eighth Ward. He'll resign this post at the end of this year. At that time council will appoint his replacement. Austin decided to run for mayor when Mayor Donald E. Conaway announced he did not plan to seek re-election.

Democrat Stuart L. "Bob" Andersen was the only candidate for Mayor of Sugar Grove Borough. He received 56 votes. Likewise in Youngsville, Mayor Ernest A. McGraw was unopposed in his bid for the Republican nomination.

Tidoute's mayorality candidate, while not an incumbent, was unopposed in his bid for the Republican nomination. William L. Karns, ran for mayor when G. K. Lodge decided to run for Justice of the Peace from the re-aligned Fifth Magisterial District.

In Clarendon Borough, both parties presented five council members for nomination, with four from each being selected. Republican nominees are Keith Gifford, 89; George Rea, 80; Joseph Montore, 83; and Wayne Kinch, 64. The four Democrats nominated from the borough were: John Stranburg, 58; Harold Wilbur, 61; Sherman Gardner, 57; and Raymond Brewster, 52.

Three Republicans and three Democrats won party endorsements as Sugar Grove Borough councilmen. The GOP representatives are: Glenn H. McIntyre, 105; Robert J. Morgan, 110; and Richard H. Manross, 104; the three Democratic candidates are: Donald Sherrard, 56; Gail Quinn, 48; and Walter Machemer, 41.

Sugar Grove residents rejected a move to grant liquor licenses in the borough by an unofficial vote of 130 to 49.

In the uncontested Republican races for county offices, Attorney William F. Morgan, district attorney candidate, received 5,953 votes; Robert L. Ritchie, GOP candidate for probatory and clerk of courts, tallied 6,211 votes and Dr. Ronald W. Simonsen, Republican candidate for coroner, received 6,230 votes.

Advisory Council Pushes For Planning Consultant

The Warren Citizens Advisory Council, at its meeting in Council Chambers Tuesday night, decided to push action for a planning consultant for the borough housing program.

Frank Strange, borough manager, told the group the first step must be the hiring of a consultant to help with the borough housing application and to start coordinating the vast amount of data already assembled.

The Borough Planning Commission, at its June 3 meeting is expected to approve the hiring of a consultant and pass its recommendation to Borough Council. Council members, at the June 9 meeting, will get the Planning Commission proposal for action.

Mrs. Leatrice Segel pointed out WCAC members could act individually to promote the hiring of the consultant.

John Hanna, chairman of Warren Housing Inc., in his housing report, recommended that WHI, the Planning Commission and the Urban Renewal Authority consolidate their efforts for local housing.

Strange talked at length, calling for the next step for the borough to get a "workable" program started and the employment of a certified planner by the borough.

All efforts should be coordinated toward neighborhood development he stressed. He said duplication of services should be avoided and asked for a liaison man to work out of the borough manager's office with the various groups to "... tie things together."

Hanna outlined the necessity for a housing survey as soon as possible to determine what type of housing is to be built and where.

Strange said that 1971 would be the earliest date when all preliminary work could be completed and there could be ground-breaking for housing. He pointed to land acquisition, clearance and other steps preliminary to groundbreaking.

The possibility of the amount of land to be needed was mooted and Richard Wolfe said for an estimated 100-unit structure, five acres would be the minimum feasible amount of land needed. High-rise buildings were also mentioned to minimize the amount of land that might have to be acquired.

Black-Belted Blonde Has Many Suitors

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. AP — Susie Hawkins is a beautiful blonde with a black belt in karate and many suitors.

"You'd think it might frighten the boys away, but it doesn't," says the 23-year-old Colorado entry in the Miss U.S.A. pageant.

Susie, an architect's assistant in Colorado Springs with a 37-25-36 figure, says it took her almost three years to earn her black belt, the top color in karate.

Susie works out twice a week in an all male karate class in Colorado Springs and says: "I'm able to break up to three one-inch boards stacked together."

Contests Waged in Four Magisterial Districts

Contests were waged by Republicans in four of the county's redrawn magisterial districts Tuesday.

In the Third District comprised of Elk, Farmington, Glade and Pine Grove twps. Ruth Mills won over Leonard H. Weston, 482 to 422.

Suzanne Hodges won the Fourth District magistracy with 292 votes to 168 for Agnes E. Woodburn and 129 for Bernard Whiteley. Bear Lake and Sugar Grove boroughs and Sugar Grove, Freehold and Columbus twps. are in the district.

In the Fifth District, which includes Tidoute borough and Deerfield, Eldred, Limestone, South West, Spring Creek, Triumph and Watson twps., with a partial count, Glenn E. Thompson led G. K. Lodge 264 votes to 243. The vote from South West twp. was not reported.

Regis Thompson outpolled Thomas L. Bailey 523 to 237 to win in the Sixth District. Youngville Borough and Brokenstraw and Pittsfield twps. make up the district.

Martha Lawson ran unopposed in Warren, the First District, receiving 2,082 votes. Also unopposed was Fred Berry who received 597 votes in the Second District which consists of Conewango twp.

No names appeared on the ballot in the Seventh District encompassing Clarendon Borough and Cherry Grove, Mead, Pleasant and Sheffield twps. A write in campaign was waged on behalf of Vincent Sprague, Sheffield justice, and although only four votes were verified, it seemed likely he received the required ten to be placed on the November ballot.

There were no Democratic candidates in any of the magisterial districts.

Jamestown Ramp Gets Low Bid

JAMESTOWN — Civic Auto Ramps of Jamestown has submitted the low bid for operating the city's new parking ramp at Fourth and Cherry sts. Actually, the group is building the ramp and using the city's borrowing power, but since it is technically a city project bids had to be asked. Civic Auto Ramps is a non-profit group of Jamestown businessmen.

Private Enterprise Gets More Government Printing

WASHINGTON (AP) — With-out public hearings, Congress is quietly cutting into the huge government printing establishment to give a fatter slice of the business—estimated at more than $400 million a year—to private enterprise.

At stake eventually in this muffled collision between business and bureaucracy is the future of more than 300 government printing plants and the already enormous U.S. printing bill.

After years of complaints from commercial printers about government competition, the Joint Senate-House Printing Committee has issued—without fanfare—new regulations barring government plants from doing printing that can be procured commercially.

A top industry lobbyist, Shane MacCarthy of Printing Industries of America, hailed the regulations as a new direction in government policy that "follows the American philosophy that government should not be in competition with private enterprise."

But a critical government official—while acknowledging bias—described the move as a long-term effort to take the government out of printing and a surrender to printing industry pressure. He predicted higher prices, second rate service and idle government plants, thus favoring the new regulations dispute this.

Aides of the joint committee—a small panel considered an arm of the congressional establishment—said the action was taken under the committee's broad authority to "use any measures it considers necessary to remedy neglect, delay, duplication, or waste in the public printing and binding and the distribution of government publications."

As a gauge of Uncle Sam's size as a printer, the joint committee listed 330 printing plants maintained by U.S. agencies—from the Agriculture Department to the Veterans Administration.

The aim of the new policy, according to the committee, is to establish regional procurement centers where commercial printers can learn of government needs and bid on the work.

Ultimately, the aide said, the plan is to close or consolidate some plants after the regional procurement centers are operating. No one would predict how many plants would be eliminated, but one official recalled that a similar survey in the late 1940s resulted in the closing of some 300 plants that sprang up during World War II.

CATV Spokesman Seeks Transfer of Regulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cable television spokesman accused the Federal Communications Commission Tuesday of harassing the industry and asked Congress to transfer regulation to the Commerce Department.

Frederick W. Ford, president of the National Cable Television Assn., said the FCC has made one proposal after another and one ruling after another to "restrict, harass and contain" cable television.

Ford testified before a House Interstate and Foreign Commerce subcommittee studying legislation on regulating cable television or CATV.

Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., subcommittee chairman, scheduled hearings Wednesday on the heretofore unreleased report of the President's telecommunications task force, with reportedly controversial recommendations.

The task force was instructed two years ago to undertake the biggest review of government policy on communications since the Communications Act of 1934, particularly on foreign communications.

Macdonald sent a telegram to President Nixon Monday asking that the report be made available. He said he has been informed that Nixon has decided to release the report.

Eugene Rostow, who headed the task force, is now Wednesday's scheduled witness. Rostow, who appeared briefly Tuesday, said Nixon made a wise decision in releasing the report and that it could contribute to the clarification of public policy.

Subcommittee members questioned Ford closely on why his industry felt FCC members were prejudiced against CATV.

"There is a tremendous resistance to change in the status quo," Ford replied. "It seems to me the commission does not understand cable television."

"I can't explain why they have taken this attitude," he said.

Ford, a former chairman of the FCC, said, "The CATV industry has no confidence in the desire, willingness or ability of the Federal Communications Commission, as presently constituted, to conduct a fair and impartial hearing on cable television or to regulate it in the public interest."

He said the FCC "undoubtedly regards broadcasting as its major concern and of necessity considers CATV as an interloper."

Ford said the association which he heads has some 1,000 members serving roughly 50 per cent of the cable television subscribers in this country.

A CATV system originally was designed for remote areas to pick up television signals by a master antenna and carry them by cable to householders. It also is used in difficult reception areas.

Mine Inspectors Called Too Zealous in Enforcement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal mine inspectors have been too zealous at times in enforcing safety regulations since the mine disaster last year near Farmington, W. Va., the head of a mine operators' group said Tuesday.

"On occasion, since Farmington, I think there have been times when inspectors overreacted and shut down mines, shut down sections, that didn't have to be shut down," said John Corcoran, chairman of the National Coal Association. Seventy-eight miners were trapped and killed in explosions and fires at Farmington last Nov. 20.

Corcoran held that many violations can be corrected on the spot immediately after they are found.

He commented at a news conference held to give the association's response to criticisms made of a mine safety bill by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

Nader said that a bill offered by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D.W. Va., as a substitute for an administration proposal has more than 40 so-called weekend provisions.

Nader suggested the changes, which he said would in some cases make mine-safety standards weaker than those already existing, were inspired by the mine owner's association.

Corcoran said Nader is wrong in criticizing sections of the Randolph bill calling for such changes in proposed federal safety regulations as less mine illumination. He said a significant safety hazard would be created by bringing into the mine more electric power for lighting.

Nader said the Randolph bill would leave miners without an effective remedy to high concentrations of disease-causing dust, Corcoran said the coal industry supports a government-endorsed interim dust standard of 4.5 milligrams of dust per cubic meter of air.

Nader also criticized the

Indian Festival Draws Big Response, Survey Shows

The Indian Festival scheduled for August 22, 23 and 24 in Tionesta and co-sponsored by the Tionesta Lions and the Volunteer Firemen ranked first on a list of activities most wanted by non-resident camp owner taxpayers in Forest County, with beach facilities ranking second, according to information released by William Wallace, County Agent. "Tops on the list of services most wanted was garbage disposal service. The comment prevailed throughout the survey that "the nature of things" should not be disturbed in the name of progress.

Wallace released the survey information (tabulated at Penn State) to the Tionesta Lions Monday night. He said that questionnaires were mailed to some 750 taxpayers in Kingsley and Harmony Townships in Forest County along with their 1968 tax statements. The mailings were made during the summer and fall of 1968.

Of those that returned the questionnaires, 90 per cent were non-resident landowners in the two townships. A total of 374 questionnaires were returned.

Over 95 per cent of the camp owners said that they were pleased with the nature of their welcome by local residents. Over 80 per cent said that they would support any effort to construct swimming beach facilities. Following garbage disposal and swimming as services most needed were, in order of preference, public toilets, boat access areas, restaurants, drinking water, medical services, picnic tables and trailer sites.

The percentage of response, it was noted, differed between the townships only in regards to garbage disposal. In Kingsley Township, where a sanitary landfill has been provided in a cooperative effort between the Allegheny National Forest and township supervisors, garbage disposal ranked seventh, with drinking water ranking first.

Almost 50 per cent of those returning questionnaires listed revival of the Indian Festival as the most wanted activity, with scenic tours, outdoor movies and boat and canoe races following in order.

In urging that the "nature of things" not be disturbed in the desire of progress, they agreed that there should be progressive thinking, but they felt progress should be along lines compatible with the environment. Many of the respondents said that they lived in congested urban centers and looked forward to escaping to the wide open spaces of Forest County with its clean air, clean streams and miles and miles of just plain woods. Many of them said they hoped Forest County

Two More Shot Dead By Teen Gangs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two teen-agers were shot dead Monday night as a spate of teen-age warfare raised the number of victims to four within 24 hours.

Sgt. Henry Frisby, of the police department's gang control unit, put it succinctly. "It's the times. Home problems, social problems, economic problems."

Police gave this account of Monday night's slayings: Robert L. Carter, 20, and a friend were surrounded by members of another gang.

The friend found sanctuary in a telephone booth. Carter tripped while fleeing and tried to crawl behind a taproom bar. Witnesses recounted how a youth leaned over the counter and fired five shots from a revolver into the cowering victim.

In a separate incident Monday, Melvin Wiggings, 17, was whipped with car aerials and then shot three times from behind.

Police believe it was in retaliation for the assault on the mother and sister of a member of a rival gang.

The week opened violent Monday morning when Wesley Johnson, 14, and Eugene Gladden, 15, were felled by shotgun blasts from a passing car as they stood on a street.

EOC Schedules Target Meeting

The Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunity Council, Inc., will hold its next target meeting in the Endeavor Community Center at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The meeting will be for the West Hickory area. A board member and other officers will be elected and area needs will be discussed.

Current programs to be reviewed include Head Start, Neighborhood Youth Corps, Homemaker Service, Hospital Attendant Training program and the clothing centers. A clothing center is located in the community center.

The council is now considering a pilot transportation project for northwestern Pennsylvania, to be coordinated by the counties office, and a project for the mentally handicapped.

ACCIDENT COSTS HIGH

LONDON (AP) — Industrial and road accidents cost Britain 500 million pounds ($1.2 billion) a year — or 10,000 pounds ($24,000) a minute, according to latest figures.

DuBois Residents Hauling Own Garbage

DUBOIS, Pa. (AP)—Residents continued hauling away their garbage in cars, trucks and jeeps and raw sewage kept flowing into Sandy Lick Creek Tuesday as a sanitation workers strike went into its seventh day.

About 30 members of Local 126 of the Building Services International Union have been striking for a 20-cent hourly wage increase. The men work in the town's street, sewage and water departments.

Mayor Jesse Warren said the State Health Department had been notified that raw sewage was going into the creek. But, he said, "I think they realize there is nothing we can do about it."

Warren said supervisory personnel are putting in an eight-hour day at the treatment plant which handles about three to four million gallons of sewage daily.

"What goes in there during the evening isn't treated," Warren said, "and that is going into the creek." He said that would be about 20 per cent of the daily load.

"If the strike continues, it could cause a health hazard," Warren continued. "We'll probably get some men down there at night if it goes along. But we don't expect the work stoppage to continue for more than a few days."

Residents say Sandy Lick Creek had not been polluted by sewage prior to the plant's partial stoppage. But Warren said towns up and down the creek without waste treatment plants dump their sewage into it. He said DuBois' treatment plant is only 10 years old.

State health officials could not be reached for comment since government offices were closed for the primary election.

Residents have been driving some three miles to deposit their solid refuse in the Sandy Township landfill.

No progress has been reported in negotiations between the workers and the city.

Women Show Interest

Women have always shown more interest in general conservation and more personal concern about the environmental qualities of our land, air and water than men. The tendency has been to relate this to the fact that women have more time to worry "about such things" than the breadwinner of the family.

Now, however, Dr. Margaret Mead, a widely-recognized professor of anthropology, in testifying before the Fisheries and Wildlife Subcommittee in Washington, states the reason for womanly interest in such things stems from the fact that the polluting and contaminating of our environment amounts to nothing less than poor housekeeping, something no woman can tolerate.

Dr. Mead also talked about the need for population controls and cited instances of how the problems of civilization are creeping into the lives of natives on the South Sea Islands.

SYLVIA PORTER

Fight for the Single Taxpayer

You, America's 19 million single taxpayers, have virtually no chance to get relief in the initial instalment of the tax reform bill from the way our tax laws openly discriminate against you. The Nixon Administration didn't even propose a move for you in its reform package. And there's no sign that Wilbur Mills' House Ways & Means Committee is considering this aspect seriously during its current closed door sessions.

But in the second instalment, there is reason for you to expect adjustments in the tax rates and personal exemption rules which so heavily discriminate against you, the never-married, the widow, the widower. A Treasury spokesman says, "The need for this reform is very much recognized." A powerful congressman adds that "heavy pressures" from representatives of the single taxpayer "are being felt." Objective tax experts tell me it is time to return to my fight for this taxpayer.

In fact, it could be that if the tax package is delayed until 1970-'71, this reform might be part of it. Here, therefore, is a progress report to all of you who are directly involved or who care about justice in our tax laws.

The discrimination against the single taxpayer is obvious, harsh -- and apparent not only in our tax rate structure but also in our system for personal exemptions. To be specific:

(1) Rates. The married couple has the enormous advantage of being able to split income for tax purposes. Thus, if you're married, you pay taxes at substantially lower rates than if you're single. There is no logic to this; it's patently unfair.

(2) Personal exemptions. The single taxpayer has one personal exemption of $600. The married couple has a minimum of two, or $1,200. Again, the logic is questionable; it's nonsense on the face of it to assume that it costs twice as much for the married couple to live as it does for the single person -- and the more children, the more exemptions and the bigger the inequity.

(3) Dollar totals. The $600 exemption was voted back in 1948. Relentlessly rising living costs since then have reduced it in effect to under $400. That's pitifully outmoded -- and especially for the single person with few other deductions to claim.

When you get to the details, the injustice is even clearer. To illustrate, an unmarried woman supporting the elderly aunt who raised her in a separate household is taxed at a much heavier rate than the unmarried woman supporting her elderly mother in a separate household.

To illustrate further, the personal exemption system was created to protect very low income people and couples with many children; it utterly ignores the middle-income single person. Income splitting was adopted in 1948 to equalize the situation between community property and non-community property states; it also ignores the single person.

The most popular proposals to erase the inequity would broaden the head of household status, with particular reference to the single individual 35 years of age and older. But a more intelligent approach might be through the system of personal exemptions. By varying personal exemptions according to marital status and income levels, the discrimination might be automatically wiped out.

What should you do? Join a group which already has organized to lobby for this reform or organize one on your own. Sign petitions if you prefer this approach. Mail your protests to your congressmen and senators -- and keep mailing. Send copies of your protests and/or petitions to the House Ways & Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee. Make your voice heard!

This is what other groups lobbying for tax laws do, and their success may be measured by the extent to which our tax laws are loaded with clauses favorable to them. You deserve to win this relief -- and if you fight, you will.

ART BUCHWALD

A Judge Resigns

WASHINGTON--As one of nine judges at the Hickory Hill Pet Show which was held last Saturday, I would like to explain why I have decided to resign rather than subject the pet show to vicious rumors and unsubstantiated charges that have been circulating in Washington for the past few days.

First, I would like to explain that although I accepted a fee of $20 a year for life (which would go to my basket) from the Kennedy Foundation, at no time did I use my office as judge to influence the awarding of blue ribbons to the Kennedy children.

The money offered by the Kennedy Foundation had been given to me because of the work I had done in animal husbandry, and I believed that I could make a contribution to the foundation particularly in the area of canine-feline relations.

Having accepted the first check of $20, 11 months ago, I decided that I did not have the time to devote to the work and, therefore, I returned the fee to the foundation.

That is all there was to the story. But after an article in Animal World alleging that the money had been paid to me because I could in some way be instrumental in helping the Kennedy children win prizes, I felt it incumbent to point out that one thing had nothing to do with the other.

It's true that I did speak to Mrs. Ethel Kennedy about her children getting blue ribbons in the canine, bird and fish competitions, but at no time did I guarantee that any of her children would be treated as special cases. If they did win six blue ribbons, it was only because their pets deserved them.

It was published in the Pet Home Journal that I also had conversations with Sen. Teddy Kennedy concerning the hamsters and turtles his children were entering in the contest. This is true. But here again I did nothing to justify Sen. Kennedy's saying later that he "had one of the pet show judges in the bag."

Sometime in April I received a call from Pat Lawford, who said she was sending her children down from New York for the pet show, and since it was such a long trip she hoped the children would not go back empty-handed. I said I also hoped that this would not be the case. A day later Mrs. Stephen Smith, another Kennedy sister, got in touch with me by mail and sent me some material relating to the pets her children were entering. I naturally declined to read the material.

The last person I heard from was Jackie Onassis, who offered me a free trip to Greece if I could arrange for John-John to win a blue ribbon for his guppies. I declined the offer.

The fact that this series of events took place one night after another has been interpreted by the public and the press as wrongdoing. I don't believe I have been helped by Atty. Gen. Mitchell's office of animal corruption which has been leaking stories to Field and Stream that there's a lot more to the iceberg than meets the eye.

I leave my judgeship regretfully, but I have to put the welfare of the pet show above my personal feelings. It is my opinion that the public controversy relating to my association with the Kennedy Foundation, as well as the awarding of so many first prizes to Kennedys on Saturday, could only harm the pet show, which is held for a noble and charitable cause.

Sincerely,
Art Buchwald

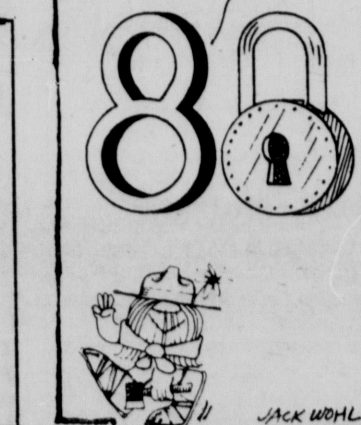

Dear Mr. Buchwald,
I have received your letter of resignation and I accept it, effective as of its date.

With sincere personal regards,

Mrs. Rowland Evans,
Co-Chairwoman,
Hickory Hill Pet Show

The Little Building

Behind most large hospitals there is a small building, ashamed of its isolation. The little one seems relieved when the late sun throws the dark shadow of the hospital across its walls. It is a combination pathological laboratory and morgue. Often, the men and women who work inside cantell you whether you are going to live.

Milton Halpern of New York is regarded as the best. A step behind him is Dr. Jack Mickley of Hollywood Hospital. Mickley looks and talks like Zero Mostel. He favors a broken hip with a cane that looks as though it were stolen from a hockey player. He has a desk, an assortment of microscopes, a few dedicated assistants, a green-tiled room for autopsies, and a chilled butcher box for the losers.

Mickley works in a pair of bifocals and striped shorts. He has brown eyes that shine with commiseration and humor, emotions seldom seen in one pair of eyes. He held in his hands a gray substance. It looked like a rubber bathtub washer that had been chewed by the family dog.

"This is an infant's heart," he said. "She died at the age of six weeks. God gave her an aorta which was much too small for the job, and four pumping chambers which were of different sizes. She didn't stand a chance, but I'm sure she's making it big somewhere else."

We spoke of many things and he utters good jokes to keep sorrow outside the building. "Did you know," he said, "that 65 per cent of all women with breast cancer are cured, but only five per cent of fat women ever lose weight?"

Years ago, a black woman was mopping the autopsy room and she paused to ask the doctor the name of the organ he was holding in his hand. Dr. Mickley explained to the scrubwoman that it was a pancreas. In an old-southern Negro tone she asked what it is for. He asked her if she was interested in such ghoulish matters as autopsies. She said she was, but she didn't have an elementary school education. "Drop the mop," he said, "and come over here."

Her name is Thetise Johnson and Dr. Mickley spent thousands of hours teaching anatomy to her. Today, Mrs. Johnson is his assistant. She knows 6,000 Latin terms for parts of the body and their pathology, but she doesn't know that many words in English. Mickley would rather part with his microscopes than with Mrs. Johnson.

He came out of the University of Maryland in 1932 and went on to Harvard to study forensic medicine. Often, a touch of laughter comes to his grin business. He helped examine a lady who had been raped by ten men. "I could tolerate the rape," she said, "but I can't forgive the names they called me afterward."

The doctor put hi-fi music in the mortuary because he doesn't want the place to appear dismal. He changed some of the ceiling lights from fluorescent--which makes skin look green--to pink. "This way," he says apologetically, "even a dead person looks human." Behind his desk is a silly sign that says: "Payment is expected at the time the professional service is rendered -- Thank you."

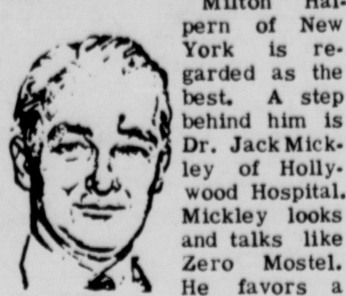

Death must come to everyone--even Mickley--but he tries to keep it from being deadly to the living. At an autopsy, organs are removed, examined for pathological aspects, washed, weighed and placed in an incinerator.

He has two perfect skeletons, one male, one female, made of plastic. Every bone is in place. "They are modeled after normal people," he said, "so I named him Norman and her Norma."

The slight chill he feels is when a biopsy is sent to him. It is a piece of suspected tissue and he stains it and places it, with a tag of identification, between glass slides. "Look in this microscope," he said. I looked. "The pink cells are normal. You see a dozen blue ones near the top? That's cancer. That's a malignancy."

He has a double microscope which he calls "You're-a-liar." This can be used by two technicians at the same time. If they don't agree on what they see, one is mistaken. In that case, he calls two more technicians to take a look.

We studied some cancerous lungs. "Did you ever smoke, doctor?" I said. He turned on that impish grin. "In moderation only," he said. "I smoked four packages of cigarettes a day and three cigars." Then he got emphysema. As you sit in the morgue, he is the only person you can hear breathing. . . .

Paper Supports Nazi Group

WASHINGTON--The tabloid New York Daily News, the nation's most widely circulated newspaper, has called upon young people to join the National Youth Alliance, which is an American reincarnation of the Hitler Youth movement.

In an editorial attack upon the Students for a Democratic Society, the Daily News declared: "To our younger customers, if you are looking for a patriotic organization which is the exact opposite of the down-with-everything SDS, get in touch with National Youth Alliance, 813 Dupont Circle Building, Washington, D.C. 20036, telephone 202-833-8450."

We have written several columns exposing the communist-anarchist ideology behind the SDS. We have also written several columns exposing how the Nazis have taken over the NYA, lock, stock and bank account. Both groups promote violence and seek the overthrow of the U.S. government.

The NYA is the former Youth for Wallace organization, which changed its name after the election. The original leaders opposed the Nazi takeover but were driven out by the Nazis, who seized the membership list, contributors' list and bank assets.

In a sworn affidavit, John Acord, the former NYA chairman, has described how the Nazis converted the NYA into a Nazi front. Here is his account, for example, of a typical meeting: "The meeting opened with the majority of the men standing in a group with uplifted arms singing the 'Horst Wessel Lied,' the anthem of Nazi Germany. A number of speakers were introduced who talked for length on such topics as 'Plato the Fascist,' 'Negritized and Judealized America,' and a review of recent books purported to rehabilitate Hitler."

"Special emphasis was given to a soon-to-be published book, 'Myth of the Six Million.' (Louis T.) Byers said that the book was badly needed by those seeking to revive the Nazi movement, but was likely to disappoint the membership as it proved beyond any doubt that the SS had done away with considerably less than six million Jews, that in actual fact the book documented that only a few hundred thousand of the 'Sheenies' had been liquidated. Byers expressed the belief that next time the final solution to the Jewish problem will be more efficiently executed."

Dennis McMahon, a former NYA vice chairman, tells in his affidavit of being invited to Byers's home.

"I saw a case," McMahon swears, "in which I was told was $300 worth of ammunition, a World War I shotgun allegedly banned by the Geneva convention, and numerous other pieces of weaponry, including German lugers."

Byers also invited McMahon to a cocktail party in Pittsburgh. Declares McMahon's affidavit: "I was shocked to see people wearing Nazi jewelry, cuff links, lapel pins and the like. A number of people were singing along with a record of Nazi war songs which was blasting from the house's hi-fi system."

Byers is national organizer for the NYA, which the New York Daily News wants young Americans to join.

Note: We assumed that the Daily News must have missed our columns about the Nazi takeover of the NYA, so we located the editorial writer to offer him the evidence. He turned out to be Reuben Maury, who gruffly challenged us to print the story. "Go ahead and print the story and be sure to use my name," he said, "if you've got the guts."

President Nixon has an important array of legal talent available for the current Supreme Court vacancies. He also expects to have other vacancies shortly, perhaps as many as any President has ever had in the short time since the days of Franklin Roosevelt. The roll call includes: William P. Rogers, now Secretary of State and formerly Attorney General, a man with long legal experience, highly qualified to be Chief Justice. Justice Potter Stewart, a moderate Republican who could be elevated to the chief justiceship. Potter is the author of one of the so-called "obscenity" decisions which has incurred the wrath of Congressmen of late. However, his opinions have suddenly swung toward the conservative.

Charles Rhyme, a close friend and classmate of Nixon at the Duke University law school. Rhyme has been head of the "World Peace Through Law" organization and takes time off at every election to campaign for Nixon.

Justice Warren Burger, a conservative Republican now on the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia. Social Washington began buzzing about him as possible Chief Justice when he was singled out, along with ex-Gov. Tom Dewey and ex-Attorney General Herbert Brownell, as the only outside lawyers to be invited to the White House dinner in honor of Earl Warren. Dewey and Brownell have been generally ruled out because of age.

To replace Fortas, President Nixon will probably pick a Jew in keeping with a court tradition. Among the prominent Jewish attorneys available are:

Bernard Segal of Philadelphia, president-elect of the American Bar Association, a moderate Republican; Justice Henry Friendly, now with the Second Circuit Court of Appeals and former attorney for Pan American Airways; and Prof. Paul Freund of Harvard Law School, a follower of Felix Frankfurter, who is being pushed by Harvard Law School leaders. There is also the remote possibility that Nixon might pick former Justice Arthur Goldberg.

Finally, there is U.S. District Judge Donald Russell in South Carolina, a moderate Dixiecrat who would have the approval of Sen. Strom Thurmond, also of South Carolina, but at the same time has not been a segregationist.

The Reader Speaks

Dear Sir:

On Monday, April 28, 1969, the United States Supreme Court refused to hear our case of Donald R. Johnson vs. the Insurance Department of Pennsylvania, wherein we claimed the 20 per cent raise of auto insurance rates of October 1, 1965, was outrageous and based on the actions of a "Trojan horse" actuary.

This culminated almost four years of work, resulting in a personal, gratuitous outlay of between $3,500.00 and $5,000.00, a total of 19 trips to Harrisburg and Philadelphia by myself and my staff, plus thousands of hours of preparation, secretarial help, etc.

Our efforts were not in vain in that we submit the following was accomplished or revealed:

1. No raise in auto insurance rates in Pennsylvania for almost 3 years, from Oct

1, 1965 to August 23, 1968. A raise of 24 per cent was requested on July 23, 1967, which, largely due to our strenuous opposition, was compromised at 11 per cent on August 23, 1968. Pennsylvanians were saved over 65 million dollars by the lack of a raise for almost 3 years, and the reduction of 13 per cent in the raise of August 23, 1968 -- this savings continues at the rate of $2,710,000 per month.

2. Our position that Commissioner Audrey R. Kelly had a "Trojan horse" actuary as her advisor, who worked for seven of the companies obtaining the raise, was affirmed by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania -- Justice Herbert Cohen in a dissent, saying that it was a tant that could not be removed, and a new trial should have been granted.

3. The undenied charge of mine that the New York head of the insurance companies attorneys in the case had attempted surreptitiously to have me drop the case. I am still willing to take a lie-detector test as to this charge.

4. The retirement of Audrey R. Kelly as insurance commissioner.

5. That Commissioner Audrey R. Kelly did not require the insurance companies to include in their rate figures, investment income (their big money-maker) as do our neighboring states of New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky.

6. The revelation that both of our political parties, Republican and Democratic, were more interested in the financial welfare of the insurance companies than in the purses of the 4 million auto owners in this state.

Thanks a lot for your excellent coverage of this case.

Yours very truly,
-s- Edward O. Spotts

Ten 'Sacred Cows'

HARRISBURG -- In an effort to cut the budget, some legislators would like to take the knife to the ten "sacred cows" of Pennsylvania -- state hospitals that are maintained by the taxes of citizens from all of Pennsylvania.

However, since these "sacred cows" seem to have nine lives, it is probable they will escape again.

They are hospitals that were established in Pennsylvania's two coal regions to care for the ill, ailments and injuries to thousands of miners back when coal was king and the top employer of men in the Keystone State.

But that was years and years ago -- yet to this day the Commonwealth is still in business in these areas running, maintaining and paying the bills of these ten state-owned general hospitals. Throughout the rest of Pennsylvania such hospitals are maintained by the general public.

Time after time, there have been efforts to "give" the hospitals back to the people in those regions, but all have failed.

In an effort to cut some fat out of the budget, Representative Robert C. Wise and a bipartisan group of other legislators are now attempting to phase out state support for these ten hospitals.

They are slated to receive $18,316,000 out of the Governor's proposed $2.5 (now inflated to $2.6) billion budget. Cutting out their support would not solve the Commonwealth's budget woes, but many lawmakers feel that doing so and following the same procedures for many other appropriations might at least alleviate the situation.

Actually the Wise bill does not end state support for the hospitals. The first section of his bill says simply that "all state general hospitals are hereby abolished."

The second says that the Secretary of Public Welfare "shall negotiate with charitable institutions, local governmental units and other interested parties for the disposition of the state general hospitals on as favorable terms and conditions as possible."

The third section is technical and the fourth says that the Secretary of Public Welfare "shall have five years after the effective date of this act within which to complete the disposition of the state general hospitals."

The original purpose of the state-owned hospitals -- to assist hard-pressed and belabored miners--unquestionably was most worthy and justified at the time, but that original purpose no longer exists.

Miners are no longer in the pathetic circumstance of yesterday, plus the mine employment factor (comparatively speaking) has virtually ceased to exist.

Not the ten state-owned general hospitals though. If anything, they're flourishing more than ever before -- again, thanks to Pennsylvania's taxpayers as a whole who are not only supporting these facilities but also their own 260 local community general hospitals throughout the rest of the state.

Today these ten state-owned hospitals serve the same function and purpose as any of the 260-odd community hospitals--the difference being that the state picks up the tab on the state-owned facilities, while local support provides the means for existence for the other 260 community hospitals in the Commonwealth.

But this isn't all Pennsylvania's taxpayers are underwriting. They're also paying for all capital construction at these facilities. Only recently a brand new $8 million "replacement" hospital was finished for Ashland State Hospital with others also on the same schedule, again thanks to Pennsylvania's taxpayers.

You can't blame the local folks served by these ten state-owned hospitals (and of course their local lawmakers) for fighting to keep the status quo--after all, they have a good thing going for them and, human nature being what it is, they'd like to keep it.

On the other hand, shouldn't other taxpayer areas enjoy equal benefits? Perhaps the answer is for the state to take over and operate the other 260 local general hospitals throughout the state too -- or the other way around.

Presbyterians Ask Renewal Of Relations with Cuba

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Leaders of the United Presbyterian Church called on the Nixon administration Tuesday to restore diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Cuba at once and lift the eight-year-old U.S. trade embargo against the Communist Caribbean nation.

By a strong voice vote, the 840 balloting delegates at the Church's general assembly approved a Latin American position paper sharply critical of U.S. conduct in Latin America. But the Cuban section barely passed.

The statement asking that the diplomatic and trade rupture with Havana be ended quickly was just 49 words long. It was part of the larger paper and was contained in a four-point series of "imperative" recommendations asking "immediate exercise of restraint and redirection of power" by the United States in Latin America.

"Consistent with the right of self-determination," the statement on Cuba said, "and to demonstrate that the United States intends to avoid punitive politics in Latin America, the United States government should immediately take steps to re-establish normal relations with the government of Cuba. This should include the lifting of the trade embargo against Cuba."

The other three points in the series of recommendations were:

— That the United States stay out of the domestic political affairs and not try to "define or change the political institutions of any Latin American nation."

— That the United States affirm a new "right and responsibility of the Latin American people" to political self-determination.

— That the United States support Latin American judgment and common action on hemisphere issues "in order to reduce U.S. domination of the Organization of American States."

Student Dissent Said Financed by Outside Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said Tuesday the government has evidence indicating that revolutionary student groups financed by outside sources are causing much of the current campus disorder.

Mitchell told a House education subcommittee his investigators have also learned that high schools, labor unions, churches and other institutions are on the target list of the student groups.

He said on the basis of the Justice Department investigation so far he expects some of the student leaders will be prosecuted on federal charges. The attorney general said Students For a Democratic Society is the most prominent of the militant groups involved on the campuses but he did not link it directly to the investigation or possible prosecutions.

Despite his warning that the militant student movement constitutes a serious national problem, Mitchell urged Congress not to pass any more laws trying to solve it.

He said college authorities, working with state and local police, have primary responsibility for keeping order on the campus. Within the last few weeks, Mitchell said, there appears to be a greater willingness by college authorities to exercise this responsibility.

Mitchell said he strongly opposes any harsh legislative action by Congress, particularly along the lines suggested by some members, of cutting off all federal aid to a college hit by a student uprising.

"I believe the SDS would be delighted if you would pass such legislation," said Mitchell. "It would be hindering the process of education, which is just what the SDS wants."

Mitchell defended the right of student dissent and said it may be advisable for some universities "to permit even more dissent than the minimum guaranteed by the Constitution."

The attorney general said the principal role of the federal government in dealing with campus disorders is to investigate them, pass along to local authorities any information turned up and prosecute any violation of federal law.

A special conference on campus unrest is now being planned by the administration to be held later this year, he said, with some 300 college administrators, faculty members and local police participating.

Pennsylvania Happenings

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Making patchwork quilts is a hobby of love for a Kutztown man and his college graduate son. Nothing sissy about it!

"I could ride a horse, shoot and do anything else, a man could do," says Sterling Behney, 50, of his boyhood days. "But I could run a sewing machine before I could a bicycle."

Sterling Jr., 22, an insurance agent, played basketball and football while in high school and college but gets a big bang out of designing quilts when he isn't fishing.

"I guess it rubbed off from me," says the elder Behney. "My wife doesn't do much quilting. She's too busy with the housework."

Father and son are planning to enter the quilting contest in the 20th annual Pennsylvania Folk Festival June 28 through July 5 at Kutztown.

Young Behney was the only man in the 1967 competition and won an honorable mention.

"Quilts are a lasting sort of thing," says Behney, who worked 30 years in a shirt factory and now is a plant security guard.

"You can pass them down to new generations and a man's or woman's imagination never dies when it's worked into a good quilt."

And good ones bring as much as $200.

A Fourth "R" — REFUSAL: Sebastian J. Stanekas of Kingston used to drive a school bus—for one year, exactly. In the fall of 1968 he refused to take the job again with the Wyoming Valley West School District.

He said he had been subjected to "verbal abuse" from the kids and also "was struck with paper wads, broken pencils, fruit skins, and other assorted objects, which interfered with his driving."

Stanekas applied for unemployment compensation — and collected. The state said he "had good cause for failing to accept the offer of employment."

Planning Group To Meet Here

The seven-county Western Penn-York Planning Conference will meet starting at 2 p.m. Wednesday, June 11, at the Jackson Valley Country Club. The theme is "Water Resources and Water Quality in the Western Penn-York Appalachia Region."

Dave Swanson is president of the conference and William R. Rusin is secretary, both of Warren. The counties included in the conference are Chautauque and Cattaraugus in New York State; Warren, McKean, Venango, Crawford and Erie, Pa. The highlight of the afternoon and evening sessions will be the appearance of Col. Wayne F. Nichols, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Pittsburgh District, at the 7 p.m. session concerned with the Upper Allegheny River Basin, specifically the watersheds in the counties named above.

Planning directors of these counties have expressed an interest in an up-to-date report on the Ohio Basin Study, of which the Allegheny River Basin is an important part. They also have asked for any information concerning new dams and thermal power plants proposed for the watershed, as well as information on flood control and flood plane management.

The schedule for the conference is as follows: 2 p.m., New York Conservation Department; 2:45 p.m., Pennsylvania Fish Commission; 3:30 p.m., Pennsylvania Department of Forests & Waters; 4:15 p.m., Pennsylvania Department of Health; 5 p.m., cocktail hour; 6 p.m., dinner; 7 p.m., Appalachia Regional Commission, Col. Wayne F. Nichols.

The conference is open to the public, and dinner reservations should be made before June 2 at the Warren County planning office.

Allies Succeed in Driving V.C. from Ap Bia Mountain

DONG AP BIA, Vietnam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers and South Vietnamese drove the North Vietnamese from Ap Bia Mountain Tuesday and pursued the enemy toward Laos, little more than a mile away.

Fortress-like Dong Ap Bia—dome means mountain—stands 3,000 feet high and overlooks the A Shau Valley to the east, and it had withstood bombing, artillery barrages and 10 infantry assaults since May 10.

But it succumbed on the 11th attack as 1,000 troops of the U.S. 1st Airborne Division and 400 South Vietnamese swarmed up the ridgelines to the summit, delayed only by an enemy rear-guard fighting from the tunnels and bunkers honeycombing the mountain.

"It was a great victory by a gutsy bunch of guys," said Maj. Gen. Melvin Zais, commander of the 101st Airborne Division. "Real victories don't come easily."

U.S. officers said 426 North Vietnamese had been killed in the battle for the mountain. Many bodies were found in deep bunkers partly crushed by massive air strikes. It is believed the mountain was headquarters for the 29th North Vietnamese regiment.

To take the mountain, 43 Americans were killed and 290 were wounded. The final assault cost the Americans one killed and 45 wounded. The North Vietnamese, estimated at 900 men, had pulled out most of their forces overnight leaving a rearguard of about 250.

The Americans expected a night counterattack or mortar- ing, and planned to explore the mountain tunnels at first light.

Asked why the North Vietnamese had pulled out, a U.S. officer replied: "I guess they were sick and tired of getting the hell kicked out of them."

The battle for Ap Bia Mountain was part of Operation Apache Snow, launched May 10 to cut off North Vietnamese in A Shau Valley, long an enemy stronghold, and to check infiltration from Laos menacing Hue to the northeast and the U.S. base at Da Nang to the southeast.

Pushing northeastward, the U.S. paratroopers found the enemy not in the valley but on Ap Bia Mountain, overlooking the 25-mile long valley.

Various reasons have been given for the repeated U.S. ground assaults on Ap Bia. One factor—which U.S. officers declined to discuss for security reasons—is the 43-mile dirt road U.S. Army engineers have been building from Camp Eagle, the 101st's headquarters, into the A Shau Valley.

The mountain overlooks Ta Bat, an abandoned village in the center of A Shau Valley and the point where the road is expected to end.

There has been speculation that Ta Bat may be the place where the South Vietnamese government will establish its first permanent presence in the enemy-infested valley since March 1966, when a Special Forces camp at A Shau south of Ta Bat was overrun by the North Vietnamese.

Committee Named to Work Out Malpractice Insurance Plan

HARRISBURG (AP) — A 15-member committee was chosen Tuesday to work out a solution of the medical malpractice insurance problem.

State Insurance Commissioner David O. Maxwell appointed the committee and noted that any solutions probably would be long-range.

Doctors and dentists are having difficulty in some areas of the state in securing malpractice insurance to protect them against lawsuits.

Testimony at a hearing last month brought out that "a malpractice market crisis" is particularly acute in the Philadelphia area, Maxwell said.

Named committee chairman was A. John Smith, chief deputy insurance commissioner, who will be assisted by Richard W. Simpson, assistant director of the department's bureau of regulation of rates and policies.

Other committee members included: Dr. Robert P. Duttlinger, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania Medical Society; Dr. Alfred A. Grillo, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania Osteopathic Association; Dr. Richard S. Kaplan, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Orthopedic Society; Dr. Ephraim S. Siker, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania Society of Anesthesiologists; Dr. Francis J. Sweeney, Jr., Philadelphia, The Hospital Association of Pennsylvania.

Recalled General Motors Cars Are Jamming GM Repair Departments

DETROIT (AP) — Four and a half million cars would jam a 20-lane highway from Detroit to New York City, bumper to bumper. Instead, they're jamming the repair departments of General Motors dealers across the country.

The nation's largest automobile manufacturer announced Feb. 26 the biggest recall campaign in history for a check of potential safety defects. Now all but 2,000 of the 4.5 million owners have been notified that there might be something wrong with their carburetors or exhaust systems.

An Associated Press check of large dealerships in half a dozen big cities across the nation showed a pattern of congestion in service departments, annoyance for car owners and frustration for dealers.

GM reports the dealers are generally taking the recall in stride, but some service managers and dealers disagree. Most are handling the work without appointments on a first-come basis.

"It's a tremendous burden on the staff. Everyone is swamped," said Larry Mulph, service manager at Norton Chevrolet in Philadelphia. "It's impossible to get other work done."

Joe Forbis, service manager of Doran Chevrolet in Dallas, said the scope of the recall has burdened the garage to some extent. He said the cars are in the shop up to 10 hours. The actual adjustment takes about 15 minutes and most owners are annoyed at the waiting time, he said.

Another Dallas dealer, Friendly Chevrolet, reported shoptime ranging from 40 minutes to several hours and little annoyance on the part of owners. Jim Bates, service manager, said he thought the campaign was larger than needed.

Called back for safety inspection and repair if needed were: — Two million standard-size Chevrolets—1965-68—for service to the rear portion of the body to prevent exhaust fumes from entering the vehicle.

— 723,000 Chevrolet cars and trucks—1968-69—equipped with the four-barrel Quadrajet carburetor, in which a cam might break and possibly cause the accelerator to jam. All cams are being replaced.

— 400,000 Chevrolets which may have both problems.

— 1.4 million Cadillacs, Pontiacs, Buicks and Oldsmobiles — 1968-1969—equipped with the Quadrajet carburetor.

Some of the 2004 per cent of owners who have not been notified, may never learn their cars could be defective.

"What we're involved in now is what we call the cats and dogs," explained Mildred Donovan of R. L. Polk & Co. of Detroit, the firm mailing recall notices for GM. "You can't get 100 per cent because of typographical errors. What I mean is if you get a car registered to someone in New York City, Calif., you know something's wrong."

The cost of the certified letters alone topped $1 million and industry observers have estimated total cost of the campaign will be more than $50 million. GM has said it will underwrite costs of repairs, but acknowledges it has provided dealers a price schedule of what it regards as proper costs for the work.

College Plans Cultural Events

JAMESTOWN — Cultural events were the order of the day at Jamestown Community College this week with the staging of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and a concert Sunday afternoon by the college's philharmonic orchestra.

The controversial drama by Edward Albee will be presented by the college dramatic group, "The Uncommoners," beginning at 8 p.m. today and continuing through Saturday. Admission to the play in the new theater is $2 per person.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the college, by stopping at the main office at the College Center Building, or at the door. The play is recommended for mature audiences only.

Earlier this year The Uncommoners staged "Gypsy," a production which provided to be one of the most popular ever presented at the school. The play was held over one week by popular demand.

At 3 p.m. Sunday, the college's philharmonic orchestra will present its second annual spring concert in the new theater.

There is no admission charge for the concert. Miss Harriet Simmons, a member of the music faculty at Fredonia, will conduct the orchestra.

ABA Says Fortas' Action Contrary to Ethics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association's Ethics Committee, meeting last weekend in Chicago, decided former Supreme Court Justice "be Fortas' relations with financier Louis E. Wolfson were 'clearly contrary' to the Canons of Judicial Ethics.

However, it was learned, the committee was divided on whether the judgment should be made public while Fortas might be trying to vindicate himself and while the Justice Department was conducting an investigation.

Girls Charged With Burglary

Two juvenile girls, ages 12 and 13, have been charged with burglary and malicious mischief in Watson Township on evidence gathered by Deputy D. A. Irvine, Warren County Sheriff's office.

The girls broke into the Pennsylvania Game Commission building in Watson Township on Rt. 337, on May 5, 1969, ransacking it and painting pictures and words on the doors, also painting items in the building, and spilling paint on the floor, with damages estimated at $25. They also stole two large snake skins and feathers belonging to Game Protector Dave Titus.

On the same date, the accused broke into a camp owned by Lowery Smith of New Brighton, Pa., located on Rt. 337, Pleasant Township. They broke out six panes of glass, ransacked the building and took several articles, with damages estimated at $25.

All items taken from the Game Commission building and the Smith camp have been recovered.

The report was submitted to ABA President William T. Gossett and released here Tuesday by the bar association. There was no mention of the division over the timing of its release.

The judgment was based on Fortas' account of his relations with Wolfson. The committee did not approach Fortas for additional information or explanation.

The chairman, Walter P. Armstrong Jr., of Memphis—Fortas' former home town—did not join in the judgment. Dissents from the public release were issued by Floyd B. Sperry of Bismarck, N.D., and by Charles W. Joiner of Detroit, dean of the Wayne University law school.

The committee decided unanimously that Fortas, by accepting a $20,000 fee from the Wolfson Family Foundation in 1966, had violated Canon 4. This reads: "A judge's official conduct should be free from impropriety and the appearance of impropriety . . . and his personal behavior, not only upon the bench and in the performance of judicial duties, but also in his everyday life, should be beyond reproach."

SENECA SCHOOL BROWNIES 'FLY-UP'

These Brownies of Troop 577 participated in a fly-up ceremony recently at the Seneca Elementary School. UNOBTRUSIVE RUNNER-UP

NEW YORK — Some three weeks before the season ended last year, Danny Cater of Oakland and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston were the joint batting leaders in the American League at .289. It was the first time that the Athletics' batsman began to get the fancy idea that he might win the hitting title, even at such reduced figures.

"How would you feel," someone asked him, "If you were to win with an average under .300?"

"I'd feel great," said the untroubled Cater, "because it would mean that for one season I was better than everyone else."

Like Avis, though, he was to be second. Yaz came storming into Oakland for a three-game series. That settled it.

"Yaz got nine hits and I got three," said Danny, "and he never stopped until he reached .301 at the season's end. I was the runner-up at .290. Now that it's over I'm glad that Yaz went over the .300 mark. It just wouldn't have seemed proper for a batting champion to be under it."

Not many people were even aware of Cater's existence during a not especially notable shuttling stay in the big leagues with the Phils, White Sox and Athletics as a first baseman, third baseman and outfielder. He has been good but not gaudy. A career average of .278 attests to that. At the moment he's batting a rousing .320. "Danny is a real solid hitter," said Bill Posedel, the A's coach. "The tip-off on his ability is that he hits the top ranking pitchers."

When Cater asked Joe DiMaggio, another A's coach, if the Joltin' had any batting suggestions to offer, DiMaggio shook his head.

"There's no need for me to say anything," he said "You're doing fine just as you are."

Cater has arrived in baseball's upper echelons with all the impact of a delayed double take. When he broke into the bigs with the Phils in 1964, he was just another name in the lineup, another figure on the playing field. He fielded well and he batted commendably. But there was nothing spectacular about him because he was a line-drive batter who rarely connected for the long ball.

"Know how many homers I had my first season?" he asked. "Let me describe it. Yes, I hit only one. It was off Dick Ellisworth of the Cubs in Wrigley Field and it sailed over the left wing fence. Old-timers tell me that it was one of the longest homers ever hit there."

"I don't average a half dozen homers a year. The one thing I never can understand is that I got 14 for the White Sox and Comiskey Park is so big that it has to be one of the toughest fields in the league. It's the only time I ever went into double figures."

"My biggest thrill as a big leaguer came on a home run. But the circumstances were a trifle unusual and that's why I got such a kick out of it. I was with the White Sox in 1965 when we got into a tight one with the Yankees at the Stadium. We were scoreless through nine innings and we stayed scoreless for inning after inning until we reached the 15th. I stepped up to bat against Pete Mikkelsen and hit a homer into the stands. It broke the tie although Floyd Robinson followed me with another homer to make the final score 2 to 0."

Cater is something of a streak hitter, a la Willie Mays.

"Except," he interrupted, "that Willie is about 560 home runs ahead of me. If I get a hit in my first at bat, I relax and get more. But I find myself pressing if I keep going hitless. My average began to pick up last year when I borrowed the bat of my roommate, John Donaldson."

"His bat was longer and heavier than mine. It had more wood in it and I don't have to connect only on the fat part. My average right now surprises me, but it's a pleasant surprise and I just hope it stays up there."

Cater received a $24,000 bonus from the Phils when he was plucked off his high school team in Austin, Tex. He was a shortstop then but was tried out in five positions as a minor leaguer—the outfielder and all four infield spots. It puzzled him. Said he:

"Are they doing this, I asked myself, to help me find myself or because I'm just not good enough in any one spot? I never did figure out the answer."

Danny was slightly miffed when George Scott of the Red Sox beat him out for the Gold Glove award for the top fielding first baseman last year. Cater handled 191 more chances and was guilty of six less errors, ample proof of his well-rounded skills.

Danny Cater is not yet a household name among baseball fans or even the most sought-after picture among collectors of bubble gum cards. But there is a growing consciousness of the fact that he has finally edged his way to the threshold of stardom.

Dragon Golfers Fall

Warren's Golf team lost a 13½-6½ count yesterday afternoon to Bemus Point. Tom Casler was the medalist for the effort gathered in four points for the victors, while teammate Don Norton brought in another 4 points with his 90

round for the eighteen holes.
Dan Phillips was low man for the Dragons on his 42-37-79.
This was good for 3½ of War-

Casper's Allergy Forces Pullout

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Allergy sufferer Billy Casper became a victim of rain-washed insecticides Tuesday and had to withdraw from the Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament.

Last year's leading money winner suffered allergic reactions when he tried to play a practice round on the Atlanta Country Club course.

Tournament officials said recent heavy rain had washed in-secticides into the lower portions of the course where Cas-per became ill.

TONIGHT AT 8

Stateline Resets Season Opener

In an attempt to out-smart the weather man and get the season's first race in the record book Stateline Speedway officials have rescheduled the twice rained-out Saturday night program for Wednesday evening, May 21. A complete 14 event program will be run with the checkered banner being dropped at precisely 8:00.

Sphon Cops Wattsburg Opener

Wattsburg Speedway had a fine turn out of nearly 50 competing stock cars for its Friday night opening races. There was quite a lot of fender bending and even a couple of roll overs as the drivers had been waiting to hit the track since the first of May. Even more Stock and Super Stock cars are expected to make their appearance this coming Friday evening. Last year's point champion, Mike Eckert from Meadville, blew his engine, followed by several others including North East's Dave Eades, who not only blew his engine while running in contention for first place, but had to have his car extinguished when it broke out in flames.

Some of the race results were: first heat, Paul Litz, followed by Walley Howser, Ray Campbell and Bob Yokom. Second heat, Wayne Hanes, Clyde King, Jay Pees and Dick Chambers. Loui Sphon won the third heat followed by Randy Otander, Jimmy Smith and Jerry Christianson. In the fourth heat it was Dave Eades, Mike Eckert, Ron Stanko and Harold Sever. First Semi, Joe Fasen-myer, Paul Kush, Bob Yokom, and Don Brown. In the second
semi it was Bruce Holcomb, Randy Otander, Dave Eades,

feature race was captured by Louie Sphon followed by Randy Otander, Bruce Holcomb, Jerry Christianson, Clyde King,
Jay Pees, Bob Tobin, George
McCool, Joe Fasenmyer and

Cooperation for Wednesday night may be coming from the weather man as area reports predict clearing up Tuesday and beautiful weather all day Wednesday. With officials pledging to run the program as fast as possible and a hot field of competitors on hand, the Wednesday night opener should prove a real treat for Speedway racing fans.

Some of the race results were:
first heat, Paul Litz, followed by Walley Howser, Ray Camp-

Four Games Start Rec Softball

A twelve-run Sub Shop outburst in the second inning of the official Rec. League opener sent the Montgomery
Ward Retailers down under a 19-2 shellacking, Tuesday night.

In the other three remaining tilts, the scores were more competitive. The Surf Club tipped G.G. Greene 7-6, while City Ice opened with a 4-2 nudging of Sheffield's Taverners, and Penn Highlands outlasted
Devore's Keystone, 10-8.

The opening game jitters became evident for Montgomery
Ward in that hectic second inning. Two errors opening the frame to set the fuse for the fireworks. Five doubles and three singles put the game beyond reach.

Jim Ostergard scattered ten hits over the seven inning on his way to the win. Losing pitcher Al Snyder worked the first three innings and was tagged for 15 runs.

City Ice's batsmen tapped out three runs in the first two innings and Jack Colvin allotted a diet of seven base hits to handcuff the Taverners. Sheffield made a strong bid to come back with a run in both the fourth and fifth innings. However, Art Zerbe's double in the bottom of the sixth provided the margin of victory.

"The Surfers' had to play catch-up ball for most of the evening in their encounter. G. G. Greene took an early 1-0 lead and held onto it for two frames.

Jim Monaghan erased the deficit and ignited a three run rally in the third, with his run producing double. The lead held up until Green's whacked six singles for four runs.

Going into the final frame,
the Surf Club was under a 6-5
deficit. Two back to back doubles knotted up the game. With just one out and men on second and first, Jeff Carlson made the game history with a line drive double to center.

Under the lights, Devore's jumped into a five run lead off starting Penn Highland hurler Dave Engle. The eventual victors cut the lead by one run in the first on an error.

Three run spurts in the third and fourth frames gave Penn
Highland a two-run advantage,

7-5. An error and four consecutive singles gave the lead back to Devore's in the sixth.
Jack Barnes, Dan Gray, Al
Keister and Jim David delivered four timely base knocks to end the game.

Thursday night's games are as follows: Warren Sub Shop will be the guest of the Penn
Highlands at the Warren State Hospital, G. G. Greene's and Devore's Keystone will meet at the West Side diamond. The Surf Club will journey to Sheffield, while City Ice takes on Montgomery Ward on Memorial field.

Tidioute Man Arrested

FREWSBURG, N.Y.—A Tidioute man was arrested on two charges following a one-car accident at 9:20 p.m. last Saturday on the Frew Run Road, one-half mile south of Route 60, in which telephone service was temporarily interrupted.

Walter R. Schmidt, 43, Box 244, Tidioute was free on a property bond pending his arraignment at 7:30 p.m. today (Wednesday) before Kiantone Town Justice C. Edward Greenwald.

State police trooper V. L. Evans of Levant said Schmidt was not injured in the mishap. According to the officer Schmidt's southbound car crossed the left side of the highway, striking a utility pole which was cracked by the impact half-way up from the ground.

Erie Firm to Store Grain Under Price-Support Program

Walter Camp, chairman Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, reports that the Commodity Credit Corporation has approved the Continental Grain Company in Erie, located at the foot of Holland st., to store grain under the price-support program of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Storage capacity of the warehouse is 3,760,000 bushels. This, Camp explains, is the first warehouse in the northwestern area of the Commonwealth approved for storing grain. There is no similar facility available in Warren County, and this is the nearest one in this region. Telephone number is: 814-454-8076.

Camp says wheat price-support loan rates in Warren County for the 1969 crop will be $1.24 a bushel. This is 3 cents less than the 1968 rate, he says.

All rates, as recently announced by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, reflect previously determined national average farm loan rate of $1.25 per bushel, the same as the 1968 crop.

Basic terminal rates, Camp adds, range from $1.45 to $1.70 a bushel.

Camp says the price-support premium and discount schedule is unchanged from that of 1968. To qualify, for price-support loans or be eligible for CCC purchases, producers must stay within their 1969 allotments and cooperate with the program.

This also qualifies them for domestic marketing certificates, which are available on 43 percent of farm projected production of wheat on the allotment, with a cash value equal to 100 percent of parity as of July 1, 1969 -- less the $1.25 national average price-support loan amount. Effective parity price as of April, 1969, is $2.72 a bushel.

NEW SCOUT EXECUTIVE

Charles R. Housel (right) who assumes his duties as scout executive for Chief Cornplanter Council Boy Scouts of America, is welcomed by council president, Ralph E. Grimm.

Housel Assumes Duties As New Scout Executive

Charles R. Housel, new executive Chief Cornplanter Council Boy Scouts of America, has assumed his duties here. He comes to Warren from his post as Field Director for Keystone Area Council, Harrisburg. From 1960 to 1966 he served as District Scout Executive in Harrisburg. Before this post he served as District Scout Executive in Lewistown, Pa. for three years, with the Juniata Valley Council.

A native of Selinsgrove, his first scouting experience was as a member of Troop 16, Selinsgrove, where he began as a patrol leader and Senior Patrol leader. Later on he began as a Scoutmaster in Selinsgrove, Pa. 3402, then became a member of the district training committee and from 1951-1955 was Cub Roundtable Commissioner. He became Assistant District Commissioner in 1955 through 1957 and also served as a member of the District Organization and Extension Committee during this period.

For exceptional services to Scouting he was awarded the Order of Merit from the Susquehanna Valley Area Council, Sunbury.

In Harrisburg, Housel served two districts, inner-city and rural. It is reported that he was most successful in the inner city area in Scouting, where nearly half the population is black. As District Executive there he trebled the membership in six years. Promoted to Field Director, he assumed responsibility for directing a staff of seven men, in addition to himself and his Assistant Field Director, with field operations for almost 14,000 Boy Scouts.

While in his Harrisburg post, Housel conducted a fund-raising campaign to establish a camp, and raised a total of $375,000 — 150 per cent of the $255,000 goal which had been set.

One duty Housel recalls was his annual handing to Governor Raymond Shafer, the report to the Governor for Region Three, a four-state area. "Raymond Shafer was director of our Scout show one year, when he was Lieutenant Governor," says Housel. Another active member of the Council's committee was George L. Bloom, then Secretary of the Commonwealth, today serving as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission.

Previous to embarking upon his professional career in Scouting, Charles Housel successfully conducted his own business. He was previously on the staff of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania's Selinsgrove State School from 1947 to 1957. He served with the U.S. Naval Air Corps in World War II.

Housel has been active during his lifetime in community projects. He has most recently served as a member of the Harrisburg mayor's committee on human relations and has represented the Keystone Area Council on the Tri-County Welfare Council. He served on the Lutheran Synod committee on Scouting. He is a past Noble Grand of the IOOF, member of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, has been a member of the Rotary Club and the Lions Club. He was captain of the United Fund for four years, division chairman of it for two years. Housel received many citations for his work in Scouting.

He is married, with five children — son Craig in the U.S. Navy; daughter Bonita married; daughter Alice attending Shippenburg State College and twin boys David and Daniel now in second grade.

Housel is eager to bring his family here and is impressed by the warm welcome he finds in Warren.

Area Enjoyed 170 Inches Of Snow Last Winter

Warren County had the dubious honor of ranking second only to Erie County in total snowfall during the past winter, according to information released by the Department of Highways. Erie County had a high of 16 feet six inches (198 inches) of snow during the five-month period from Nov. 1 to April 1, with Warren County recording a total of 170 inches.

Ten other counties reported more than eight feet of snow (over 100 inches): Lawrence, 126; Potter, 124; McKean, 119; Somerset, 117; Clearfield 109; Elk, 108; Cameron, 106; Cambria, 106; Centre, 100; and Mifflin 100.

The Clearfield District (Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Cameron, Elk, McKean, Potter and Mifflin counties) again was the "Snow Capitol" of Pa. with an average of 120 inches. The "Sunshine" counties were Lancaster and Lebanon which recorded only 16 inches of snow.

County Planning Agencies Hear Warren Junk Car Plan

County planner William R. Rusin and zoning officer Dale E. Freeborough presented Warren County's junk car removal program to 40 representatives of county planning agencies, tourist promotion agencies and the junk car industry at a meeting of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Regional Planning Development Commission held at the Voyager Inn, Franklin, Pa., on Friday, May 16.

Although it could not be expected that there would be immediate approval and acceptance of the program outlined for junk car removal over the eight-county region as proposed by Rusin and Freeborough, the county officials said they were pleased with the opportunity to present the program and they were confident that the group would ultimately accept it.

They reported that Dr. Albert Viczian, planning director of the Venango County Planning Commission, stated following the meeting that a meeting of all planning directors in the eight-county area should be called to discuss the matter in detail after there has been sufficient time to study the proposal as submitted.

In addition to a verbal presentation given by Rusin and Freeborough, each representative in attendance was given a 12-page outline of Warren County's junk car removal program as prepared by Rusin, explaining the program as initiated under a 701 planning grant from the Department of Community Affairs.

Rusin told the delegates that the citizens of Warren County and the officials of individual municipalities are reacting favorably to the program to dispose of some 2,800 junk cars. Rusin said that the final solution is legislation that will obligate an individual car owner to be financially responsible for the disposition of a particular automobile registered in his name at the time of abandonment, and that zoning is another means of providing immediate solution.

But since many township supervisors feel that zoning regulations infringe on individual property owner rights, they are reluctant to adopt county zoning regulations, he said. Once the junk cars are entrenched in an unzoned section of the county, he continued, it is difficult to initiate any action to have them removed.

Rusin said that the problem cannot be completely solved on a local level, and that state legislation will be needed for junk car control, particularly in regard to the lengthy period involved in clearing the title of an abandoned automobile.

Dale Freeborough then explained two phases of the program which started in Warren County on April 1, with six strategically located collection points set up. Phase I covers the collection of a minimum of 200 cars at each site; Phase II beginning in June, covers the pick-up of individual junk cars and transportation to the collection points. Phase III involves the pressing of the assembled autos at the collection points for transportation to Luria Brothers in Cleveland. Freeborough said that Phase I has been relatively successful, with the majority of the effort being spent on encouraging people to voluntarily participate in the program. He said that several hundred junk cars have already been moved to the collection points.

It is expected, Freeborough said, that the program will move into Phase II about June 15.

Freeborough said that one promising adjunct of the junk car program has been a plan to remove old refrigerators, washers and dryers to a processing plant at Erie.

Rusin then concluded the presentation by showing colored slides of the final operation (Phase III) at Cleveland.

Opening of Warren Swim Pool Delayed

The opening date for the new Warren Borough swimming pool has been delayed until on or about June 21, according to word received from Rockwell O'Sheill, chairman of the swimming pool committee.

O'Sheill said that after careful consideration and evaluation of all the conditions, the borough manager, in concurrence with the department heads and in consultation with the engineer, it has been determined that it will not be possible to have all of the facilities ready in time for a Memorial Day opening.

"The recommendations and best judgments of all concerned have been carefully considered," O'Sheill said. An official announcement will be made prior to the opening date, he said.

O'Sheill said that above-average precipitation during April and May has interfered with painting and testing the pool, in that each application of paint must be given proper periods to cure. Likewise, continuing rainy weather has precluded re-planting the areas surrounding the pool which were washed out by heavy rains in April; and the combination of wet and cold weather has retarded germination of the seed in the areas already planted.

In the meantime, applications will be for season passes at the Borough Office on Monday through Friday between 9 a. m. and noon and 1 p. m. and 5 p. m., beginning Monday, May 26. An adult member of the family must make application for a family membership.

Two special nights have been set aside for registration: Thursday, June 5, and Friday, June 6, from 7 to 9 p. m., at the Borough Office.

The following fee schedule will apply: season pass for a family, $20 per year; for single adult, 19 years of age and over,

Youngsville Council Looks At Street Bids

Three bids for seal-coating and surface treatment of specified borough streets were opened at an adjourned session of Youngsville borough council on Monday night. They were from Cross and Company, Union City, Pa.; Western Pennsylvania Asphalt Co., Franklin, and Huber's Blacktop Co., Warren, in the amounts of $6,585, $6,315 and $4,894 respectively. The bids were referred to the streets committee and the borough manager for study and recommendations.

A letter was read from the Small Business Association releasing a 0.916-acre piece of land on York Hill for purchase by the borough for the location of a proposed new reservoir. The borough solicitor, William Bevevino, will prepare the necessary papers to complete the purchase arrangements with Hill Enterprises. The measure carries one step further, the nine-months-long borough reservoir dilemma. No action was taken on a report from the solicitor that he had been advised by attorney Donald S. Mervine, for Richard J. Inter, that the former borough reservoirs (adjacent to the Hill Enterprises site) could be bought back for $20,000 or used on a long-term lease. This phase of the reservoir problem was turned over by Council some time ago to their attorney.

The sidewalk committee will make recommendations on a question concerning replacement of sidewalk at the Youngsville Transfer location on Railroad Street.

Other sidewalk discussions concerned areas near the Railroad street and West Main street exits from the Route 6 bypass. Mayor Ernest McGraw called for a build-up of the low approach to the bypass from Railroad street, to improve visibility.

Youngsville Borough cleanup days will be conducted Thursday and Friday of this week, and next Monday.

The various Ranger Districts contributed towards this total as follows: Sheffield 240,900 visits; Marienville 206,600 visits; Bradford 1,078,300 visits; and Ridgway 138,900 visits. The activities that contributed to this use were: boating 7 per cent; fishing 6 per cent; camping 18 per cent; picnicking 7 per cent; swimming 3 per cent; hunting 14 per cent; driving forest roads 29 per cent; and others 16 per cent.

Freeman also indicated that visitor day use on the Allegheny Reservoir has grown steadily from 91,900 in 1966, 126,500 in 1967, to 455,900 in 1968. The most popular activities on the reservoir were boating, swimming, camping, picnicking, and sightseeing.

The reservoir continues to be a popular year round attraction for sightseers. "It is obvious," Freeman concluded, "that more and better access routes will be needed if we are to properly handle the increasing number of visitors to this area in the next couple of years."

REFLECTIONS

By Betty Rice

The Daughters of American Colonists, Kanoagoa Chapter of Warren, are making a significant contribution to the area by placing in the DAC Hunter Memorial Collection at Warren Public Library, a copy of the newly published "History of the Pennsylvania State Society, Daughters of the American Colonists. Included in the History is a biography of Mrs. (L.L.) Lillian Acomb Hunter of Tidioute, the second National President of the Society and Regent for Kanoagoa Chapter for several terms. Also included in the History is a biography of Mrs. May Gwin Hamblen Easton (Fred C.), a Past State Regent and first Regent of Kanoagoa Chapter. The History, in addition, features an ancestor roster of present members and a history of the local chapter. And still another contribution—Mrs. Bertram Messerly, DAC State Historian from Warren, reported she was present when Mrs. Herald Best, State Regent, presented to Governor Raymond P. Shafer for use in the new Executive Mansion, the three silver bowls given by the Pennsylvania State Society, Daughters of American Colonists. These facts were revealed to members at a May 15 meeting of the chapter when Mrs. Georgia Coyle reviewed the book "The Johnstown Flood" by David McCullough in which she included historical facts with vivid descriptions. Mrs. David W. Crossett Jr. was chairman of the social committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bair of Wetmore, Pa., have returned home after spending the winter in Kissimmee, Florida. Mrs. Florence Bair is a surgical patient in Kane Community Hospital.

We hear a very pleasant day was enjoyed Saturday, May 17 by the family of Dr. and Mrs. F. O. Eakin, 8 Patterson street, Sugar Grove. Those present were: Eugene K. Eakin, Ph.D., LL.D., vice president of Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio and his wife; W. Everett Eakin, Press Relations Manager, Libby-Owens Ford Glass Co., Toledo, Ohio and wife; Arthur E. Eakin, B.D., D.D., pastor of Lilleyville Church of God, Ellwood City, Pa. and wife; Gladys A. Eakin, A.M., Supervisor in the Schools of Bethelborough, a suburb of Pittsburgh and her friend and roommate, Martha Burris, a teacher in Mount Lebanon Schools; Harold H. Burgard, A.M., teacher in Southwestern High School, Lakewood, N.Y. with his wife and three children. A picnic dinner was served at noon by Mrs. F. O. Eakin.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 26-year-old girl with a five-o'clock shadow. This may sound funny to some people, but I can tell you that a secretary who has to shave every day sees very little to laugh at.

I keep reading ads for do-it-yourself electrolysis kits. It sounds so simple I'm suspicious. A friend of mine who went to a licensed electrolysis to have her mustache removed spent $200 and at least one-third of the hair grew back. If a licensed operator can't do any better than that, how well can an inexperienced person do, especially if she is working on herself? Please set me straight.—HIRSUTE IN HILLSDALE

Dear H: The most highly skilled electrolysis report that they can permanently destroy only about 80 per cent of the hair roots on the first go-around. The reason is simple. The roots of some hair follicles are curved and the needle misses them. Your friend who spent $200 should have spent another $100 and had the job completed.

Hair removal is no place to save money. My advice is to forget about do-it-yourself kits and go to a skin specialist. Ask him to do the removal or recommend a licensed electrolysis to whose work he knows.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you for printing that letter from the girl who signed herself "Guilty." She told how she teased her boyfriend and led him on just to see how far he would go. When he went too far she swung from the floor and walloped him across the face. That was supposed to let him know she was "a nice girl."

Her boyfriend told her in plain language that a tease was less moral than a Total Put-Out. He said he had more respect for the girl who went all the way than the girl who turned a guy on, lured him to the brink, then clobbered him.

I want to thank that girl for writing as she did. Her letter made me see myself through the boy's eyes. Never again will I play that game. Thank her, please and thank you too.—FRESH START

Dear Star: Good girl! And for those of who who see a tiny bit of yourselves in the above exchange, I bid you—go and do likewise.

DEAR ANN: What can a husband do when he is unable to get his wife to go to bed at night and he can't get her out of bed in the morning?

Leona is nuts over TV. She will watch anything that moves. I turn in at midnight because I must get up at 6:30. Leona has to be up at 7:15 to get to work on time. I fix breakfast for both of us and wake her up just before I leave. It's a terrific struggle to get her out of the sack because she stays glued to the idiot box until 3 a.m. We have a fight every morning on account of this. What's the solution?—WOODY

Dear Wood: Buy Leona a new alarm clock and tell her she's on her own. When you let her oversleep a few times and she learns she can no longer depend on you, she'll make it on her own.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's And Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamp, self-addressed envelope.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Irma Seckel of 2946 Boyce Road, Shaker Heights, Ohio and the late Milton L. Seckel.

The Rev. V. E. Maybray officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Miss Olive Kreidler played traditional wedding selections. The altar was adorned with vases of white chrysanthemums and snapdragons.

The detachable train was encircled with lace. She wore a matching lace shoulder-length mantilla. She carried a nosegay of white daisies and streamers with knotted Stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Jean Harman of Warren was the bride's only attendant. She wore a floor-length gown of soft yellow ribbed cotton styled with a Sabrina neckline and short sleeves. Cotton lace encircled the empire bodice. She complemented her outfit with a matching picture hat and carried a nosegay of yellow daisies and white carnations.

College Women's Book Sale

Mrs. John Sechrist, Mrs. Elmer Wiles and Mrs. Edward Breit, co-chairmen of the used book sale sponsored by the Association of College Women of Warren, have launched plans and preparations for this annual event, already in its 9th year of operation. Continuing the custom of other seasons, the sale will be staged in conjunction with the Retailers' Sidewalk Festival Days, tentatively set for mid-September.

Members of the Association, through their chairmen appointed early in March, earnestly invite the support of all area residents, not only by purchase at the sale but also through donations for the display.

Proceeds realized from the used book sale help replenish the Student Loan Fund, a project which has been in existence for approximately 40 years. In that time more than 35 deserving girls have received this loan as a means toward their college goals.

Those having good, used books in the attic who prefer not to dust them this spring or those with a supply of books which has grown beyond accommodations of bookcases, may call Mrs. Sechrist at 723-1967; Mrs. Wiles at 723-8351 or Mrs. Breit at 723-6029 and they will arrange for collection.

If you are able to transport your own books, take them any time to 204 Fourth avenue, across from the court house where there is ample storage room.

The Association of College Women will appreciate contributions of good, used books, including novels, essays, poetry, music books, text books or any other type for the annual book used book sale.

Y., and Huntington, Fairview, Sugar Grove, Lander, Russell, Akeley and Chanders Valley, Pa.

The table was laid with a white linen tablecloth covered with ruby netting. Ruby candles were in silver candelabra and the centerpiece was a two-tier heart-shaped cake trimmed with ruby rosettes. A wedding picture taken in 1929 was also on display.

Mrs. Stanley Norberg of Buffalo, N. Y., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served the punch with Mrs. Jefferson Sears and Mrs. Howard Fox pouring coffee from a silver service. Mrs. Alvin Cable managed the ruby covered guest book. Each of these aides received a "forever yours" open rose corsage.

The kitchen aides were Mrs. Robert Burford, Mrs. John Clark, Mrs. Preston Cathcart and Mrs. Catherine Van Orsdale.

Mrs. Cable received her guests in a gold princess-style dress with a white orchid pinned with ruby ribbons. Mr. Cable had a ruby rosebud boutonniere and the two daughters-in-law also wore "forever yours" corsages.

Lloyd Fox, cousin of the bride, was master of ceremonies for a brief program which featured several young people from the Youth Group. They sang "Precious Memories," "Wedding Chimes" and as an encore "If I Had a Hammer." The Rev. John Clark led devotions. Mr. and Mrs. Cable cut the wedding cake and Mr. Clark gave the invocation.

Elton Cable and the former Margaret Fox were united in marriage May 16, 1929 at Kidder EUB Church in Jamestown, N. Y. by the Rev. Will Hanks. Mrs. Claude Perrigo, the former Bridegroom, was an attendant. She was at the open house and was remembered with a pink sweetheart rose corsage.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When combing or pinning up your hair by the bathroom mirror, put the stopper in before you start. Then put a strip of tissue over it.

This will catch your hairpins and loose hair and prevent them from going down the drain.

A Constant Reader

DEAR HELOISE:

Don't fret if you find yourself without candle holders for a birthday cake. Hold each candle over a low heat to soften the end. Then insert a toothpick into the softened end before it hardens, and set the toothpick into the cake.

The candles will stand neatly upright and you'll be delighted with the effect.

There are tricks to giving picnics painlessly. You should make potato salad at least 6 to 8 hours in advance. This gives the seasonings a chance to soak through the potatoes; and keeping it in the refrigerator insures crisp crunchiness for the celery, green peppers and radishes.

Ground chopped beef can be formed into patties and stacked between squares of waxed paper well in advance. A small paintbrush is the handiest tool for generous swabbing of chickens or meat over an open fire.

Married In New Bedford

St. James Church of New Bedford, Pa. at 12-noon Saturday, May 17, 1969 was the scene of the wedding of Miss Jacquelyn Bator, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bator, New Bedford and Gregory Dilick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dilick of Sheffield, Pa.

The Rev. James Denver officiated at the nuptial mass.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a silk organza slipper length gown fashioned with bateau neckline and bracelet length sleeves. The molded bodice and controlled skirt were appliqued with Alencon lace and sprinkled with sequins and seed pearls. The full chapel train was topped with a cabbage rose at the waistline.

Her veil of pure silk illusion was attached to a dainty matching rose headpiece highlighted with sequins and seed pearls and she carried a prayer book overlaid with white satin and centered with a white orchid corsage on ivy and stephanotis.

Miss Patricia Pope of New Bedford was maid of honor and was attired in a slipper length gown in moss green chiffon featuring a ruffle collar and neckline, long sleeves and a fitted bodice with wide satin sash which enhanced a sheath skirt. She wore a matching headpiece with circular veil and carried a cascade of yellow carnations centered with orange gladioli.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Stephen Dilick of Clarendon and sister of the bride, Miss Sharon Dilick of Sheffield, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Susan Stupka, New Bedford, wore gowns identical to that of the honor attendant but in gold chiffon with matching gold headpieces and carried cascades of yellow carnations centered with light orange gladioli.

Lorann Bator of McDonald, Pa., a niece of the bride, was flower girl and her nephew, Kirk Bates of Bradford, was ringbearer.

Stephen Dilick of Clarendon was his brother's best man and ushers were Phil Cerra of Clarendon, a cousin of the bridegroom; Joseph Castagnino, a brother-in-law of the bridegroom from Warren and Thomas Krzysek, the bride's cousin.

The reception was held immediately after the wedding ceremony in the church rectory hall for members of the immediate families and friends.

The couple later left for a wedding trip through the states enroute to Vallejo, California where they will make their home. The bridegroom is in the U.S. Navy and stationed at Mare Island in Vallejo.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♣ 3 ♥
Dble. Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Four of ♠

In the hand presented today, East and West inflicted a severe penalty on an incautious opponent.

West was confronted with something of a dilemma on the opening. With 14 high card points, the hand is a mandatory opening. To bid one spade, however, might lead to rebid complications if partner responds at the two level. The one club opening facilitates the rebid—albeit the suit does lack a high honor.

East jumped to three clubs which is forcing to game. South's vulnerable bid of three hearts has little to recommend it against the strong bidding of the opposition. It can only serve to offer the opponents a fielder's choice on the hand, since partner can hardly be counted on to have anything.

West doubled three hearts. With four gilt-edged defensive tricks—it appeared that a penalty might easily prove more profitable than any game that might be scored.

A low club was opened and East covered North's jack with the king. East cashed the king and queen of spades next and then shifted to the queen of diamonds. This was followed by the ten of diamonds and West took the king and ace of that suit as East discarded his remaining spade on the third diamond.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 21, 1969.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Some matters will run smoothly, others may need greater effort and better direction. Discriminate between duties and desires. The first are "musts," the second should come later.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—You may have to spur yourself on now, especially where apathy toward tedious tasks is concerned. But it will be worthwhile. Victory over self makes the going easier, brings quicker progress.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Mixed influences. Choose thoughtfully what you will do, what you leave out of your program—the latter being a vital consideration. Some changes in procedure could lighten the monotony of routine.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Study trends and motivations to understand people and systems better. Also note what you have, or have not, been contributing personally. A day for checking your balance sheet.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Usually the Leoite is a busy and active person, but there are tendencies towards apathy and indifference for many now. Be alert, and don't yield to such negative feelings.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Give encouragement wherever you can; it will react beneficially for you and your interests. In considering new ideas and methods be guided by precedents.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—A deep sense of fulfillment can be yours if you will stay with the small and difficult chores, holding them equally important with the "big things." Emphasize the Libran's innate stability.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

CONDITIONING THE HEART
Exercise is in the lime-light today as a popular cardiovascular conditioner. Its recommendation in the treatment and prevention of cardiac disease is based on the assumption that activity improves blood flow and efficiency of the heart. In this regard the old ticker is able to perform the same amount of work much more economically than the pampered organ.

The exercise enthusiasts are not suggesting five push-ups, half-mile walks, or bowling twice a week. To do the job, the exercise must be constant, consistent and the type that taxes both circulation and respiration and promotes endurance. Avoid brief, sporadic muscular effort.

According to Dr. Sergius Bryner of Palo Alto, Calif., the effects of exercise were studied on 112 physicians. To qualify, they did heavy or moderately heavy exercise. The heavy type included squash, tennis singles, or competitive doubles, fast distance swimming, running, hill climbing, bicycle touring, exercising against resistance, and long, vigorous calisthenics five or more times a week.

The moderate-heavy exercise is almost the same; it is done less frequently but regularly. The program was begun nine years ago and the number of deaths involved is too few to come to any conclusion. Eight deaths occurred but only four were due to heart trouble.

The objection to most conditioning programs is that they include many factors other than exercise. The participants are also told to reduce the fat intake, attain a normal weight, stop smoking, continue gainful employment and lead a normal life. One conclusion reached was that regular exercise is not harmful and there is some evidence that it is beneficial.

A word of warning to those who have recovered from a heart attack. Exercise should not be so strenuous that it brings on chest pain, dizziness, or other heart symptoms.

TOMORROW: Haven from Asthma.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

ACTION OF MILK ALLERGY
A reader writes: If a person is allergic to milk and milk products, what symptoms does he develop when he consumes?

REPLY
In infants and young children it leads to vomiting, whereas in other persons the symptoms run the gamut of the entire gastrointestinal tract. Now and then nasal congestion, hay fever and arthritis are traced to a food allergy, such as to milk.

TURNIPS AND GOITER
A reader writes: Can a person with a goiter eat turnips occasionally?

REPLY
Yes. Certain vegetables such as turnips, cabbage, cauliflower, brussels sprouts and kohlrabi are said to encourage goiter formation. But tremendous amounts would have to be consumed. Iodine deficiency plays a more important role.

CORTISONE EFFECT ON KIDNEYS
C.R. writes: Is cortisone hard on the kidneys?

REPLY
No, in fact this hormone is used in treating kidney disorders such as nephrosis. Fluid may accumulate in the tissues during cortisone therapy but this has nothing to do with the kidneys.

Today's Health Hint—
Emotional pressures cause muscular tension.

Plowright 10-Hour Dance This Saturday

"There's something happen- ing here, what it ain't ex- actly clear . . . I think it's time we stop, hey, what's that sound, everybody look what's goin' on."

These words are from a song by Buffalo-Springfield, but they express clearly what will be going on at the Plowright Playhouse this Saturday, May 24.

The Voice of Daniel will go on stage at 2 p. m. to start what is now ten hours of music at the playhouse. The music festival and jam was originally slated to begin at 3 p. m., but has been moved ahead one hour due to the number of bands appearing. The dance is sched- uled to close at midnight.

The Voice of Daniel, from Jamestown, N. Y., will do "Try a Little Tenderness," "These Eyes," and popular songs written by themselves, among others. They join Owl Soup, Raspberry Tombstone, Lucid Diversions 69-Cent Blues, Purple Haze, The Strange Herb, The Disraeli Gears and The Light Brigade for the festival.

Other groups and solos partic- ipating will be announced as soon as further information is received. The invitation is still out for groups and solos inter- ested in playing (contact Lucid Diversions 723-2531). It is also hoped that the musicians will join a jam later in the day.

The festival is a birthday party for recording artist Bob Dylan who penned such songs as "Blowin' in the Wind," "Like a Rolling Stone," "Mr. Tambourine Man," and "The Times They Are a Changin'." He recently released an album featuring Johnny Cash as guest artist.

Proceeds from the dance will go to the Plowright Playhouse's renovation fund.

The dance will be chaperoned by members of the Plowright theater.

A concession stand has been set up outside the barn theater to sell food all day. It will be manned by Plowright person- nel. No alcoholic beverages will be permitted on the grounds.

Members of the playhouse and Lucid Diversions have put a fresh coat of paint on the stage and seats. There is plen- ty of room for dancing and

LUDLOW AREA NEWS

By MRS. HILDUR WENSTRAN

Rebekah Circle of Lutheran Church Women held its final session, until September, on May 12 at 1 p. m. at Moriah Church with Mrs. Lawrence O. Larson as leader. Hostess for the day was Mrs. Merle Walters.

The group studied another section from the book "The Mighty Acts of God" by Dr. Robert Marshall.

All members turned in their projects which have been worked on since October 1, 1968. Twelve pajama-like garments had been completed for the refugee children in South Vietnam. Twenty-four knitted bandages for leprosy colonies served by Lutheran World Relief had been finished.

Seventeen members of the Safety Patrol of Hamilton Twp. serving the local Ludlow Elementary School returned Saturday night from their three-day visit in the nation's capital. It is reported that rain made the sight-seers damp but their enthusiastic reports of the trip show how much these youngsters appreciate this trip. These children not only patrol daily through rain, sun, sleet or snow, but also help to raise the funds for the trip by selling Christmas cards and candy during the school year.

The patrols agree that much credit for helping in their projects goes to the Hamilton Twp. Citizen Patrol Committee with Mrs. Dean Walters as president and Mrs. Richard Wolfgang as treasurer. They were also aided by their class advisor, Mrs. Betty Tramontana and the principal, Mrs. Wilda McCleary.

There were two members of the class who could not attend due to illness namely, Randy Zaffino and Betsy Zeedard. Those who made the trip included Michael Walters, as captain; David Wolfgang as lieutenant; and Cindy Nelson, Caroline Blankenship, Cindy Newpher, Susan Anderson, Cindy Thornton, Bonnie Anderson, Cindy Gora, Nancy Bennett, Christine Bires, Kaye Lamper, Diane Lindquist, Joe Jashurek, Mary Hanley, Willy Losey, and Mike Beckwith.

Over 100 persons attended the American Legion Auxiliary Mother and Daughter Banquet May 12 at the Legion Home. Special guests were the Girl Scouts of Ludlow and their mothers.

The hall was beautifully decorated with the table decorations and centerpieces made by the various Girl Scout troops locally. Mrs. Andrew Misulich, president of the Auxiliary, acted as toastmistress. Special flag services were held before the dinner after which Mrs. Andrew Misulich and Mrs. Dean Walters were surprised by being honored for their length of faithful service in the local Girl Scout movement. These two leaders are retiring in this capacity but will actively remain as local committee women for this organization along with Mrs. Ernest Anderson. Mrs. Misulich and Mrs. Walters were each presented beautiful corsages and an autograph book from the scouts. They also received a Friendship Pin as a gift from Mrs. E. L. Hill of Kane with whom they have been associated in Girl Scout activities. Each was also given a beautiful wooden plaque with the Girl Scout Emblem which had been artistically made and carved by Mr. and Mrs. Neil Davidson. Corsages were made by Mrs. Millie Anderson.

Prior to the dinner Mrs. Hill led the scouts and dinner guests in the singing of the "Applesauce Grace."

After dinner the Girl Scouts opened the program singing "Girl Scouts Together" and gave a short skit entitled "Americanism." These girls were under the direction of their leaders, Mrs. Merle Walters, Mrs. Richard Wolfgang, Mrs. Neil Davidson, Mrs. Carl Strandberg, Mrs. Ward Anderson, Mrs. William Campbell, and Mrs. Dan Bires.

Mrs. E. O. Nelson gave an interesting history of the Girl Scout movement in Hamilton Township.

Guest speakers for the evening were Mrs. E. L. Hill and her daughter, Phyllis. Mrs. Hill urged mothers to take an active interest in their daughter's scouting life. She challenged Ludlow Scouts to try to attain a goal of being the first to achieve the Cadette rank of First Class Scout.

Phyllis Hill told of her experience last year when she spent two weeks at the Edith Macy Training Center in Pleasantville, N. Y., at a music and art festival sponsored by the Girl Scouts of America.

Mrs. Rebecca Trumbull of Sugar Grove and western director of the Elk, Cameron, Forest, Warren and McKean Counties of the American Legion Auxiliary was also an invited guest and spoke briefly encouraging the auxiliary members to continue their work with youngsters in the community.

In commemoration of Mother's Day, two poems were read by Mrs. Ward Anderson and Mrs. Lawrence O. Larson.

As a closing number the Girl Scouts sang "Jacob's Ladder." Mother's Day awards were presented as follows: the mother with the smallest waist won by Mrs. Andrew Okruh; the mother with the most children won by Mrs. Gust Carlson and Mrs. Joseph Eckstrom; the mother with a child living the farthest from home won by Mrs. Homer Gilfert; the youngest girl present won by Alona Gardner of Erie and granddaughter of Mrs. Eva Jones; and the Girl Scout with the most years in Scouting won by Phyllis Hill.

Monetary contributions in exchange for poppies go directly to the welfare activities of the American Legion and Auxiliary. All funds are used for aid of disabled veterans, their families and the families of deceased servicemen.

LEARNING BY DOING LONDON (AP) - Twenty trainee clergymen from various denominations have been getting to know the problems of London dockworkers by working with them and living in their homes.

A spokesman for the South London Industrial Mission, an inter-church body which wants to improve relations between the church and industry, said: "Most student priests do not come from this walk of life and often it is the only contact they have with it until they go into an industrial parish. Even a short spell can do much to broaden their outlook."

GIRL POWER

When the Youngsville Girls' Club sponsored a carwash on Saturday at the Abplanalp facility, they went the extra mile and vacuumed interiors, cleaned windows and whitewalls, and polished, applying elbow grease with an enthusiasm that left patrons reassured that local teen-agers at least are more constructively than destructively oriented. As many as four girls at a time would swarm over the vehicles to make sure customers got their money's worth. The Club plans a trip to New York City in June, and the girls were raising money to help pay their way. Other forthcoming moneymaking projects include a bake sale and a rummage sale.

Tionesta Lions Urged To Support Eye Bank

Members of the Tionesta Lions Club were urged Monday night to participate in the Lions International eye bank program through the Buffalo Eye Bank and Research Society.

In telling the story of the development of the Lions program, Eric Duncan, of the Oil City Lions Club, said that in less than a minute, the eyes of a donor can be assigned to a recipient in one of 13 states, including Washington, D.C. He said that the donor's eyes must be removed within three hours after death and must be transplanted within 72 hours. Duncan said that 95 per cent of all eye transplants, or partial transplants, are successful; and even though the cornea or other parts of the eye may be damaged, the fluids can still be used.

Duncan said that there are presently 51 requests for eyes on the waiting list at Buffalo. He said that the only charge involved is the recipient's hospital and doctor charge where the operation is performed. There is no charge to the donor.

Donor cards were distributed for the 30 Lions present and their wives.

BARREL DAY FRIDAY

Milton York puts finishing touches on steel drum as it is made into an outdoor trash burner at Sugar Grove Fire Hall. York and a group of teen-agers have prepared these burners from discarded drums for the past several seasons, and will have a supply at the fire hall Saturday for first comers. Trash Burners To Be Given Out in Sugar Grove Friday

Saturday, May 24, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., is barrel day at Sugar Grove, when trash burners fashioned from discarded steel drums will be distributed from Sugar Grove Fire Hall.

Milton York who has supervised this continuing fire-safety project with the aid of a group of young people of the community, says this project is conducted in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters and the Pennsylvania Department of Highways.

As explained by forest fire inspector Andy Marfink, of the Warren office, District 14, Pa. Dept. of Forests and Waters, these steel drum trash burners are most effective in preventing fires from spreading from outdoor burning of trash to grass and to forest lands. Marfink has the highest praise for the community service performed by teenagers in this project.

The burning barrels are given away free, but all donations are welcome, and will be applied toward the purchase of a new 1500 water tanker pumper for the Sugar Grove Volunteer Fire Department.

York suggests people come early, because, although there is a large supply, this is not unlimited. They have already distributed in the neighborhood of 175 trash burners made by the teen-age team. Many have

Corry, Spring Creek Residents Disturbed Over Stretch of Road

CORRY--Residents of Corry and Spring Creek who travel between the two communities have yet to say anything good about the stretch of highway which was resurfaced a year ago in a sort of ripple effect topping.

They say the road is too narrow for the traffic it handles and is extremely slick when wet. They complain most about the failure of the State Highways Department to properly backfill the berms in the wake of the resurfacing. It is stated that at some points along the stretch the dropoff to the berm is five to six inches.

Some backfilling has been done, according to a Spring Creek township official, but the material is such it recedes from the paving rapidly.

State Police of the Corry substation maintain the dropoff at the site of two recent crashes could have been a contributing factor since cars going off the paving onto the berm have difficulty getting back on the highway.

On Sunday afternoon, two crashes occurred at the same curve when the right wheels of the cars dropped off the pavement and couldn't be maneuvered back on. Both spun into a wooded area. The drop at that point was as much as eight inches.

It was noted a Spring Creek resident stated he and others plan to ask the highways department to make a special effort to get a permanent backfilling job done on the road.

The Red Baron is almost here to shoot holes in MIRACLE-MIX Bread, baked by the bakers of MILLBROOK. (MIRACLE-MIX is the bread with no holes!) Oh boy! If Snoopy ever needed help, it's now. He's counting on everybody.

Here's your assignment.

When the Red Baron is sighted over the city, the signal will go out over the radio. Synchronize your watch. Then all together rush outside the house, shake your fist at the Red Baron. And (all together) shout "CURSE YOU, RED BARON!"

That ought to scare him out of town for good. That's Snoopy's Battle Plan, anyway. So stand by. And start practicing.

MORE FRESH,
MORE TENDER,
MORE NICE
